Lee Townsend

Head Photographer

Lee has been with Words of Colour since 2009. He specialises in documentary and portrait photography, working primarily with third sector organisations both as a photographer and a workshop facilitator.

He is passionate about promoting photography as an art form and is heavily focused on making it accessible to everyone. As a result, he founded both Lenses of Croydon, a photography group with in excess of 500 members, and the Croydon Photography Forum, which serves to create a platform for aspiring photographers to hear from practising professionals.

Lee is a graduate of the University of Technology, Jamaica, and he has just completed a BA Hons degree in Photography at the University of Westminster.
