The Cobb Salad | Behind the Scenes at Jester's Café | Happy Anniversary!

The Cobb Salad's Hollywood History

The Cobb Salad has been a star in the lunch world since 1937 and owes its vaunted reputation to its namesake, Robert Cobb, the owner of the famed Brown Derby restaurant in Hollywood, California and it has been a power lunch favorite of producers, stars and agents every since. One rumor has it the salad was thrown together with leftovers for movie theater mogul, Sid Grauman, owner of Grauman's Chinese Theater on Hollywood Boulevard, as a meal he could chew after visiting the dentist.

New Elements Gallery

We are so fortunate to be located in a thriving artistic community! When you look around the café, you can't help but notice the excellent and eclectic artwork that adorn our humble walls. These works are specially curated for us by New Elements Gallery and available for purchase.

Miriam and Lance Ohrlein own the gallery located at 271 South Front Street where they offer a unique collection of paintings, sculpture, jewelry, glass and much more. Miriam is an artist specializing in designing statement jewelry. In 2012 her designs won the Belk Southern Designer Showcase and were featured in Belk stores. Lance has a background in theatre and is a local attorney with the District Attorney's office. Miriam is from the South Carolina upstate and Lance is from New Orleans, but they are proud to now call Wilmington home.

Happy Anniversary!

Robert Powers & Sydney Penny celebrate their 23rd wedding anniversary on September 30, but September also marks their 2nd year of owning Jester's Café.

Luh Miss-yer and Lah Mah-dam

The Croque Monsieur, a toasted ham and Swiss cheese sandwich filled with creamy béchamel sauce and dijon mustard, and his partner topped with an egg, the Croque Madame, originated in French bistros around 1910. Proust mentioned the Croque Monsieur (literally 'Gentleman's Bite') in his work In Search of Lost Time in 1918. It may not be easy to get your tongue around the tricky words, but it's sure easy to eat! Bon appétit!

Heda the Table

With her husband, Doug, in the military, Heda Waldrep and her family moved to cities all over the world but as you can guess, the dinner table became an important place to make her family feel at home. As a Wilmington, NC resident for over ten years, Heda's friends took notice of her creativity and passion for entertaining and asked for help to create special tablescapes for dinner parties, cocktail parties, bridal showers, and other events. With a growing demand for her unique way to customize an intimate setting in any environment, Heda The Table was born.

Heda works with individuals and local businesses such as Jester's Cafe to custom design tables and decor for special events.

Brittany Amundrud

One of Jester's Café's MVPs is Brittany Amundrud. Brittany began working at Jester's Cafe in 2015 as a server and managed the front of the house before transitioning to the kitchen a year ago. Brit, as her friends call her, enjoys the creativity of cooking and has aspirations to own her own restaurant one day. Brittany's pride and joy is her daughter, Ellie, and her favorite item on our menu is the French Onion Dip. Brittany also has a secret talent — she plays the clarinet.
