INTRODUCTION

This leaflet outlines what financial help may be available from pregnancy to school age. It includes how universal credit (UC) can help you qualify for certain types of help, and other assistance that is available as well as universal credit.

UC replaces child tax credit, working tax credit, income support, income-based jobseeker's allowance, income-related employment and support allowance and housing benefit for most people. If you are still getting one of these benefits you may also qualify for the financial help described in this leaflet. If you are already entitled to child tax credit (CTC) or working tax credit (WTC) you can continue to get them and renew your claim – if you get one you can start to get the other tax credit.

If you are not already getting UC, becoming responsible for a child for the first time usually means that you have to make a new claim for UC. But you cannot claim UC, and you can still claim tax credits if you are getting the severe disability premium in income support, income-based jobseeker's allowance, income-related employment and support allowance or housing benefit, or were getting it within the last month, and continue to satisfy the conditions for it.

If you are unsure if you need to claim UC seek advice before you make a claim. The information in this leaflet is not a full statement of the law, and individuals should be referred for specialist advice where appropriate.
