Hsiang-Yi Angela
Wang Richter
1984-2021

Hsiang-Yi Angela Wang Richter and her family lived in New Taipei City in Taiwan until 2011, when she moved to Minnesota. She was charismatic, optimistic, creative, and energetic. She married Jason Richter, and was a wonderful step-mother to their two daughters.

Hsiang-Yi Angela Wang was born on October 23, 1984 to her father, Y.T. Wang (王有土) and her mother, Phyllis Lee (李黛琪). Y.T. Wang and Taichi Lee, along with Angela and her younger brother, John Wang (王瑋強) lived in New Taipei City, Taiwan.

As a child, she loved being active, going swimming and climbing, eating good food, and often visiting the zoo. After graduating from high school, Angela attended the National Taipei University of Business, where she received her Bachelor's Degree, according to the Ballard-Sunder Funeral & Cremation website at <https://www.ballardsunderfuneral.com>.

In 2011, she moved to the United States, working as a source analyst for Advanced Auto Parts before transferring to Koch Industries in a similar role.

Hsiang-Yi Angela Wang met Jason Richter at their place of employment, and they were united in marriage on July 6, 2011, in Bloomington, Minnesota. Angela took in Jason's daughters, Selina and Melanie, as her own without hesitation.

Family was incredibly important to her. Together, they all enjoyed traveling, visiting almost every state in the U.S. and going to many different countries, including visits home to Taiwan. Angela was able to go to Thailand and Hong Kong with her mother and tour Europe with her brother, a trip that was always on her wish list.

In her free time, she loved cooking, doing arts and crafts, and hiking. She had a great sense of fashion as well, always staying up to date with clothing styles and makeup. She also had a passion for nature and protecting the environment and was super caring for all people and animals. Hsiang-Yi Angela Wang Richter supported children through World Vision and Feed My Starving Children.

Angela's faith was also extremely important to her. She was a member at Friendship Church for many years where she taught in the children ministry and participated in small groups.
