

The Tale of Jeter Gray Fox

Written & Illustrated by Kat von Hacke

The Tale of Jeter Gray Fox

The Lost Fables of Appalachia
Written & Illustrated By Kat von Hacke

Book Description

Jeter Gray Fox has a plan that requires the help of Basil Red Fox. But in the Appalachian woods, not everything is as it seems. Between pokeweed patches and tall trees, one fox's craving might just lead to trouble, trickery, and a lesson they won't soon forget.

Featuring original hand-drawn artwork, this clever tale captures the wild charm of the mountains and the mischief of two foxes on a fateful adventure.

Publication Date

September 2025

Specifications

Hardcover 8.5"x11"- portrait, case laminate, matte
44 pages
Color premium , illustrated

Author Bio

Kat von Hacke is an author and artist based in the Appalachian foothills of Georgia. Inspired by the natural world, regional folklore, and the quiet magic found in everyday life, her work celebrates the beauty and mystery of the wild. Through her illustrations and storytelling, she gives voice to the forests and creatures of Appalachia, fostering wonder, empathy, and connection with nature.

Ordering Information

ISBN: 979-8-9997427-0-4

Available in Ingram

Distributed through IngramSpark
(55% trade discount
Returnable)