

Elethia Singletary

With over 10 years' experience, Ms. Singletary possess a unique ability to think strategically, taking abstract concepts and turning them into concrete solutions. Her passion for communications is reflected in her desire to craft innovative strategies that support the development, production, and execution of high-impact, multimedia strategies that achieve successful results.

During her career, Elethia has gained a wealth of first-hand experience serving in numerous leadership and consultative roles that provide highly effective communication strategies to all levels of staff, including government officials, congressional staffers, senior managers and directors. She is a leading communications expert and digital strategist with a proven ability to elevate brand awareness, expand audience engagement, build strategic relationships, manage effective communication programs and attract influencers.