ROUND THE STATE

WITH "DINGY"

It is sure tough winning this N.S.W. State Premiership outright. Cessnock the Minor Premiers has already been beaten in the quarter final and now has one chance left namely the Grand Final. Corrimal, which won the Southern division by 9 points, has lost all premiership interest for 1954, having been eliminated 4-0 by Auburn in the quarter final.

That Auburn v. Corrimal quarter final replay was a real boilder. Corrimal had first half chances but the forwards frittered them away by dallying in front of goal. In the second half, the Auburn team outclassed the South Coast side and if the Greens produce that second half form in the semi-finals and final, they will surely collect that Premiership pennant, which is the only major trophy the club has so far not had its name engraved on.

Although it IS eliminated from the 1954 Premiership series, the Corrimal side has provided grand soccer entertainment throughout the season. Our thanks to the lads who have so capably represented Corrimal in the well known Red and White shirts this year, for the many happy and entertaining hours they have given the soccer public. Perhaps the coasters consolation will come along in the State Cup competition.

Mayfield United has gone from success to success. Having beaten Cessnock to enter the State Premiership semi-finals, the Mayfield boys last week beat Adamstown in a replay of the second round State cup tie, and will now meet Canterbury-Marrickville in the quarter final.

The popular Wallsend team will be seen in Sydney this week-end . . . in opposition to Leichhardt-Annandale in the Premiership semi-final. The forward line of the Reds is a group of youngsters who provide delightful soccer.

Well, a prophet is always unhonoured in his own country. To be quite frank, I was stunned when a NEWCASTLE man told me last week-end, that the Mayfield United side was "just a team." I could not help telling him that any team which could defeat Cessnock and Adamstown in successive weeks must be something more than his derogatory definition.

This season alone, the N.S.W. SOCCER Football Association has donated 350 footballs to schools, financed two schoolboys carnivals, and also distributed £650 amongst schools and junior organisations. Furthermore, the Association will donate to the winning teams of every under 10, 12 and 14 years competitions between the Queensland and Victorian borders, 12 trophies for the players.

The memberships of the N.S.W. Soccer Club is filling up more rapidly than ever. Subscriptions are being received every day, and they are not confined to Foundation Memberships either. Quite a number of good sports people have already forwarded their £100 for life membership. The Foundation membership fee is £10/10/- for the first five years. If you have not forwarded yours yet then do so now, because the membership will definitely be closed at a future date. See the application form on page 15.

For the first time in many years, the Granville club's participation in the Premiership and State cup competitions ended early. In fact, I cannot recall when the Black and White shirts were placed in the moth balls as early as August. What a series of misfortunes the Magpies suffered, and at the most important part of the season too. Do not worry you Granville fans, with the oncoming talent available, the Macarthur Park Brigade will be around the top of the League table for many years yet.

The Auburn Soccer club is to hold its annual Ball at the Westralia Ballroom in Macquarie Road, Auburn, on 15th October. It is one of soccer's special highlights of the year. Tickets may be obtained from secretary, Harry Greentree, by ringing YX7309 or YX7922.

THE NEW ZEALANDERS' RECORD TO DATE

The New Zealanders' visit in 1954, has altered the opinion of most Australian fans, concerning the quality of soccer in the Shaky Isles. When the Australian team visited New Zealand in 1950, it swept through that tour without losing a match, and the N.Z. standard at that time was unquestionably poor. But arrival of numerous immigrant people saw an influx of "new blood" in the game, and while the National eleven is by no means in world class, there is no doubt it has provided Australian fans with a pleasant surprise.

Of its nine matches played to date, the New Zealanders won 4, lost 3 and drawn 2, and amongst their victories were the scalps of an Australian XI at Adelaide, Australian (1st Test) at Melbourne, and the powerful N.S.W. side in Sydney.

Here is the N.Z. record with two matches to play:

N. Z.	3	v	South Australia	2	(August 4th)
N.Z.	3	v	Australian XI	1	(August 7th)
N. Z.	1	v	Victoria	2	(August 11th)
N. Z.	2	v	Aust. 1st Test	1	(August 14th)
N. Z.	0	v	Granville Dist.	3	(August 18th)
N. Z.	4	v	N. S. W.	1	(August 21st)
N. Z.	2	v	Queensland	2	(August 25th)
N. Z.	1	v	Aust. 2nd Test	4	(August 28th)
N. Z.	1	v	Northern Dist.	1	(August 29th)

The two matches to be played are:

N. Z.	v	Australia (3rd Test)	Saturday 4th September
N. Z.	v	South Coast	Sunday 5th September

Skipper Jimmy Hunter, one of the finest sportsmen to visit Australia in recent years, has this to say—

"We have had a grand time and have been treated splendidly since arriving in Australia. Amongst the many fond memories we shall take back with us is that of a launch trip around Sydney's beautiful Harbour.

"I feel that prior to our arrival in Australia, sports people here had probably assessed our quality as being similar to that of 1950 when Australia won so easily in New Zealand.

We have made no claims to being champions, but I am sure the Australian fans have enjoyed our efforts and appreciated our performances so far.

The loss of Roy King, our star centre-forward, was a severe blow and for a while we had to do without the services of inside forward Allan Smith.

Australia and New Zealand are all square having each won a test, and the third Test in Sydney will decide the destination of the Ashes. The New Zealand lads will give all they have in a great effort to win the Rubber, and of course if we succeed, all shall be elated. However, we also know how to lose gracefully, and if Australia is the victor, our congratulations will be most sincere. Whatever may happen in the vital test match, we shall again be trying very hard to conclude our visit with a win at Bulli on Sunday.

"That is the last match, of course, and then we shall be off home again. May I say to all the good soccer people and other sportsmen and sports-women of Australia, who have so sportingly received us, au revoir. We shall be looking forward, at a date we hope in the very near future, to entertaining the Australian team in New Zealand, and joining issue again in International sporting contest."

Jim Hunter.

TO-DAY'S (Sat.) MAIN EARLY MATCH AT 1.15 P.M.

Southern League fans will recall the Lane Cove v Guildford Premiership fixture on 19th July, which was terminated by the referee with twenty minutes still to go. The reason was a Guildford player who was ordered off refused to obey the referee's order, and was eventually suspended for the remainder of the season. Now the N.S.W. Soccer Football Association has ordered the match to be replayed, and it has been presented as the main early game to-day at the Sydney Sportsground.

Here is the position of the two teams which are staging a desperate struggle for a position in the first four which means entry into the Southern League Premiership semi-finals.

	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	Pts.
Lane Cove	21	12	6	3	80	31	27
Guildford	21	12	7	2	54	53	26

Guildford requires a win to enter the semi-finals, while a draw will ensure Lane Cove's entry.

THE MATCH OF THE CENTURY

In a booklet, published by the Hungarian News and Information Service, is given a comprehensive story of what the writers describe as the Match of the Century.

It deals with the events leading up to the first England v Hungary international soccer match, the game itself and the amazing welcome accorded the victorious Hungarian team on their arrival back in Budapest.

Hungary won the remarkable match 6-3, and there is no doubt the country's international players rank amongst the world's best.

Ironically enough, the base of all soccer training and coaching in Hungary was laid by former English trainers and coaches, and principally by Jimmy Hogan and Bill Hibberth.

Unlike our British countries, whose Premiership competitions are legion and must not be interrupted even for international football, the Hungarian Association controllers have different ideas. Actually, the whole of the premiership competition was suspended for the entire season so that the national team could be prepared for one objective . . . the defeat of England.

But the preparation went back even further than that, for over a period of almost four years the national team had been trained and coached as a unit.

Training was rigid and there was no place for the man who could not don the national shirt trained to the minute. So thorough was the final preparation that a match with Sweden was arranged and in that game the object was not so much to win, as to polish up the required moves which had been carefully planned to penetrate the English defence.

Publicity of the match electrified the entire sporting world, and tourist trips were arranged from every European country. Tickets for Wembley stadium were sold out within a few hours of the opening of sales. Hundreds travelled on spec from Europe only to find that they could not gain admission.

Leader of the Hungarian team, Mr. Gustav Sebes, journeyed to England in advance, where he witnessed the England v The Rest of the World match. He inspected the Wembley turf, arranged the restaurant where his players would stay, carefully specified the menus for them during their stay, and . . . took back to Hungary an English ball such as would be used in the big game.

On the night of November 22nd, 1953, the Hungarians arrived in London, and next morning the smiling face of mercurial captain, Ferenc Puskas, greeted readers of all newspapers in Britain. In factories, offices, clubs, theatres, even hospitals, the "formidable Hungarians" were the sole topic of conversation. The mighty Puskas, acrobatic goalkeeper Gyula Grosics, huge centre-half Gyula Lorant, and the "brains" of the team, 32-years-old centre-forward Nandor Hidegkuti captured the public imagination, and overnight became as well known as Tommy Finney or Stanley Mathews.

At 9 a.m. on the big day (November 25th), the players of the Hungarian team assembled in the Cumberland Hotel, and the porter, by way of encouragement, advised them the fog would soon lift and "as a matter of fact a bit of sunshine was expected."

When the team reached the great stadium, the ground was packed, and the Royal Air Force band was playing.

Instructions issued by Mr. Sebes were carefully absorbed, and finally the referee's whistle summoned the teams on to the arena. The Hungarians received a tumultuous welcome from the British sports people and the same full-throated roar greeted the pride of England.

Meanwhile in all towns and villages throughout Hungary people of both sexes and all ages had their ears glued to the radio for the whole 90 minutes of play was to be broadcast by decree of the Government which had marked the great occasion by declaring the day a public holiday.

At 2.17 p.m. Hidegkuti launched the ball on its 90 minutes' journey. The "Match of the Century" produced the soccer sensation of the century when right-half Bozsik slipped the ball through to Hidegkuti who strodes on into the penalty area and in the first minute of the game flashed a terrific shot high up into the English net. There was a paralysed silence for a minute then a mighty appreciative roar from the huge crowd. The centre-forward repeated the performance a couple of minutes later, but the goal was disallowed for an infringement.

Fourteen minutes had elapsed when English left-half Dickinson slipped a ground pass to Mortensen who quickly transferred to Jacky Sewell. The latter's quick feint and body swerve caught the Hungarian defence unawares and Sewell's fast ground shot brought up the equaliser.

Twenty-two minutes and Hungarian "Menace" Hidegkuti did it again. Emerging from a bunch of English opponents, he beat goalkeeper Gil Merrick with a fierce drive which was well outside the 'keeper's reach. One minute later came the greatest goal scored at Wembley for many a year. The ball moved in short passes between half-backs and forwards of the Hungarians in the most precise manner and nary an English foot touched it until it hit the back of the English net from the mighty drive from inside-left Puskas. A fourth goal, again by Puskas in the 29th minute brought further disaster, and the game looked well won.

However, Stan. Mortensen reduced the leeway in the 38th minute and half-time arrived with the scores 4-2. Bozsik and Hidegkuti added further Hungarian goals in the 50th and 53rd minutes, and Ramsey scored England's last goal from a penalty kick in the 57th minute.

So ended the "match of the century," and Hungary's four years' plan had succeeded.

A national holiday was again declared for the return of the team and Budapest traffic was brought to a standstill when countless thousands turned out to welcome the national football heroes home.

Thus ends a brief story of the Great Game — a game unsurpassed for thrills and skills. A game which knows no creeds, colours or denominations, but which continues never ending, to thrill the universe.

Yes, there is, and there always will be only one real ball game—

SOUTH COAST SECTION

New Zealand Visit . . . Sunday, 5th September, 1954

The New Zealand soccer team will visit the South Coast area to play its last match of the tour on Sunday, 5th September.

The visitors will leave Sydney by motor coach at 8.30 a.m. arriving at Sublime Point about 10 a.m. where they will be officially received by the members of the Combined South Coast Soccer Committee.

After morning tea, they will view the beautiful panoramic scenery from Sublime Point and the Bulli Lookout. The views from these vantage points are amongst the most beautiful which the New Zealand tourists will remember of their visit to this country.

Leaving the Lookout, the visitors will then be conducted on a sight-seeing tour of the South Coast area, and like all previous visiting teams, will find this a most interesting experience.

At the conclusion of their tour around the district, the party will return to the Bulli Hotel for lunch, and from there will proceed to Slacky Flat to meet the combined South Coast eleven at 3 p.m.

They will be entertained after the game at a special dinner at the Woonona Bowling Club's rooms.

South Coast hospitality to overseas visitors is well-known throughout the soccer world, and the New Zealanders will take back with them, memories of one of the happiest days of their Australian visit.

The one discordant note connected with the New Zealand visit to the coast, is that of the attitude of the Wollongong Showground Trust and local Rugby League authorities. It is now history how the Showground Trust authorities completely bungled the whole of the arrangements for the game to be played at the Showground.

However, notwithstanding the Trust's bungling, the New Zealand v. South Coast match could still have been played there except for the fact that—the Rugby League authorities "Objected."

Of course you can hardly blame the League authorities, for the soccer code on the South Coast has now captured the public imagination and the League people are really fighting a losing battle for existence.

One thing which may not have occurred to those same League authorities is—that Australian sportsmen do not like dirty play, and the League action in "blocking" soccer's use of the Wollongong Showground on Sunday, 5th September, savours of the usual uppercutting in the scrums (on the blind side) and the ear-biting associated with the hash and bash game which is commonly referred to amongst the cleaner living types of sportsmen as the "Egg and Spoon" race.

The attitude of the Showground Trust and the League authorities, will in no way detract from the attractiveness of Sunday's game, and no apology is required to be offered to our New Zealand friends for this revelation, because don't forget, the Hash and Bash is played in New Zealand too, and they are no doubt familiar with selfish domination which apparently is part of the administrative teachings of this so-called sport which masquerades under the name of football.
