

Dear Friends,

Greetings from the Orlando Science Center! I'm up here taking part in the Pulpit Project, a workshop for Pastors in the Florida Conference (and sometimes from other States!) who wish to develop their sermon series for the year and contribute their own ideas for the benefit of other Pastors. It's a great way to form and renew connections, and to gain new insights from our colleagues.

I just want to share a photo I snapped on Saturday afternoon, just before the Treasure Coast Community Youth, Middle and High School Choirs offered their concert. It seems a gaggle of peacocks decided to visit Trinity's grounds for the day. The peacocks seemed hung around outside the Sanctuary for the entire concert. It appears that animals love choir music too! Aren't we blessed to call Florida home, even for just a part of the year?

I pray that God blesses you with peace, joy and love this week! For those of you who have journeyed, or plan to journey to places near and far, safe travels, enjoy your summer, and we at Trinity look forward with joy to your return!

"May mercy, peace, and love be yours in abundance." - Jude Anil
