OUR PRODUCTS

The hairpieces by Isla Morena are locally crafted in the Philippines, from 100 percent quality guarantee virgin human hair. The three key features of hairpieces—durability, affordability, and most importantly—comfort—are also guaranteed by our products.

MACHINE WEFT

Also known as human hair weave, this product is made by stitching rows of hair together in order to keep them together and stop shedding.

Human hair weaves or machine wefts are types of extensions made by stitching bundles of human hair together. To keep the hair in place and stop it from shedding, it is folded and stitched; this creates a line, also known as a weft track, where the hair is attached. It is a popular hair addition in Africa and North America.

MEASURING GUIDE

A hairpiece length is determined by measuring it from root to tip. Majority of hair distributors and producers rely on the typical method of measuring which is to stretch every strand of hair especially for the curly and wavy variant. In order to achieve an exact measurement, curly and wavy hair are stretched in the same manner as straight hair. Numerous brands have been using the typical stretch out method as a way for their measuring pattern.

As a game changer, Isla Morena decided to have a standard measurement procedure without stretching the product in order to provide a more precise measurement for all of its hair extensions product. For straight hair, beginning at the back of the head's crown, measuring downward until reached the desired length. For hair that is curly or wavy, it begins at the top of the back of client's head and measure downward without pulling it.

In this manner, it would also be beneficial to our clients and would also lessen the confusion that might arise. We want to make it as simple as possible for our valued clients to choose the best length for them. Making certain that every item we sell is accurately measured, of the best caliber, and priced reasonably.
