

LITTLE SMART FROGGIE

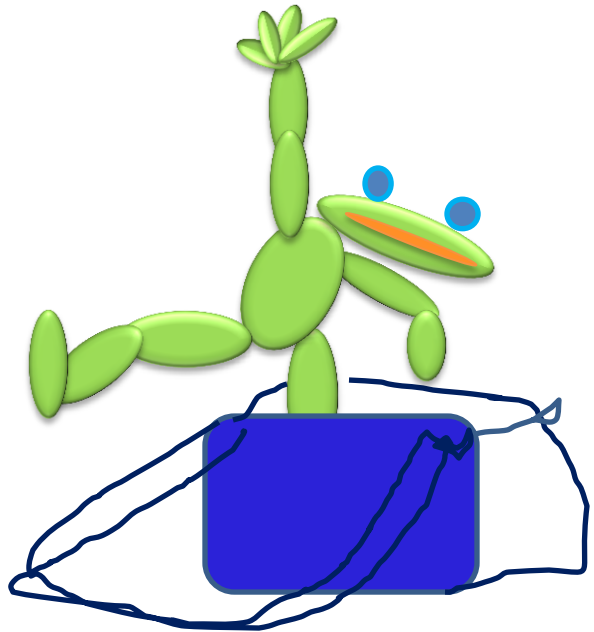

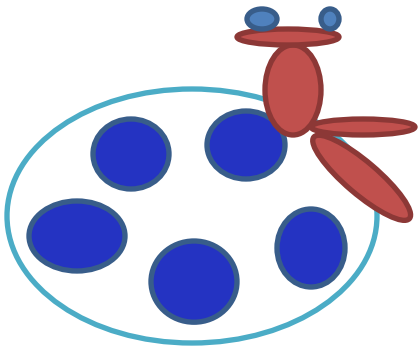

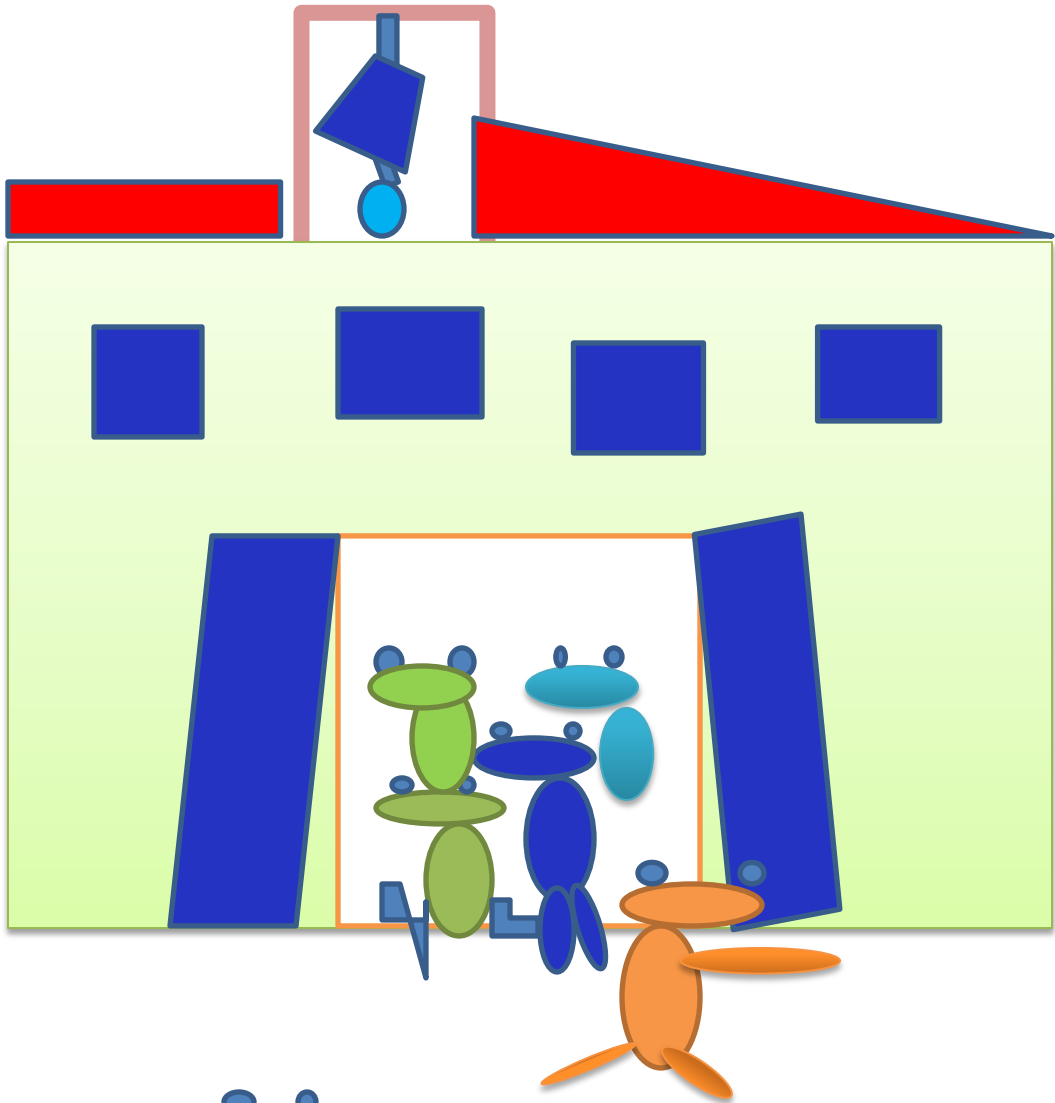

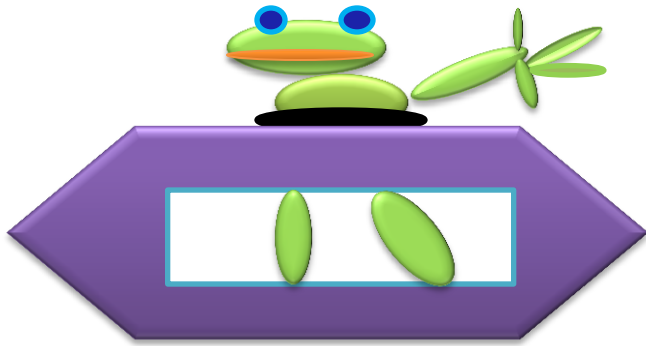

THE LUNCHBOX

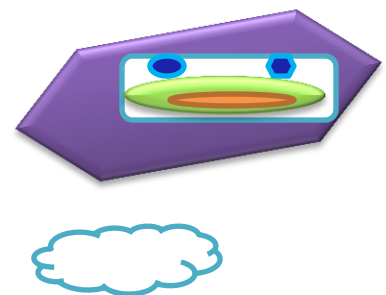

Little Smart Froggie tore out of school. He was just not going to miss any part of the break. He was going to be the first and the fastest on the playground. Suddenly he stopped. “Where is my lunchbox?” He looked down. “What?” There was the lunchbox! Quickly he opened it and there is no lunch, just a note: “Step in me”. There is always time for an adventure! Let’s see what happens!

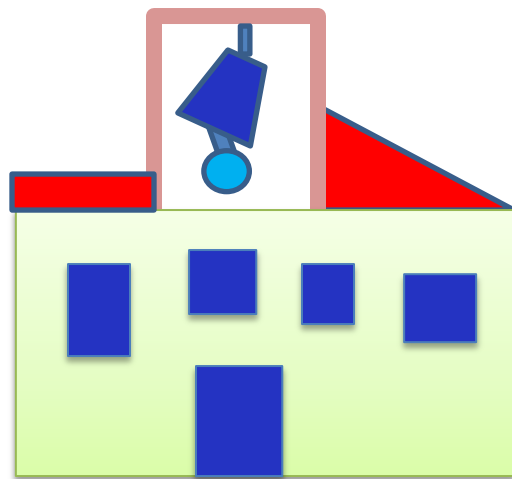

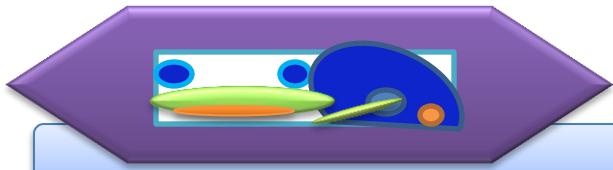

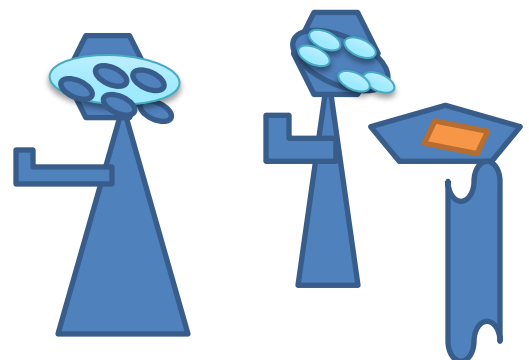

Little Smart Froggie stepped into the lunch box and miracle of miracles! The lunchbox started expanding and changing into a spaceship. A full side with controls appeared. There were controls clearly marked and Little Smart Froggie pressed the START button, wishing only his friends were there! He was zooming past bright stars. Oh but what beauty! The Yellow Star, The Red star, The Green Star.

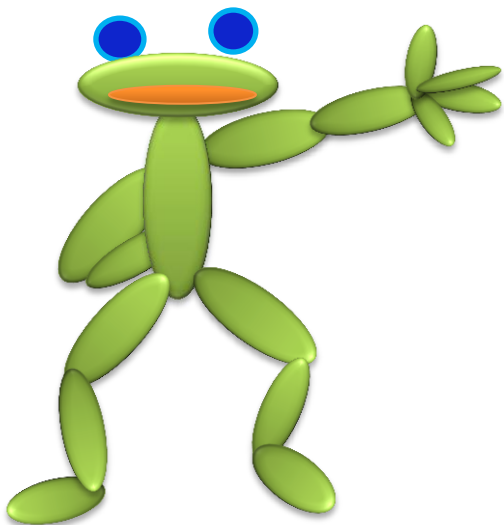

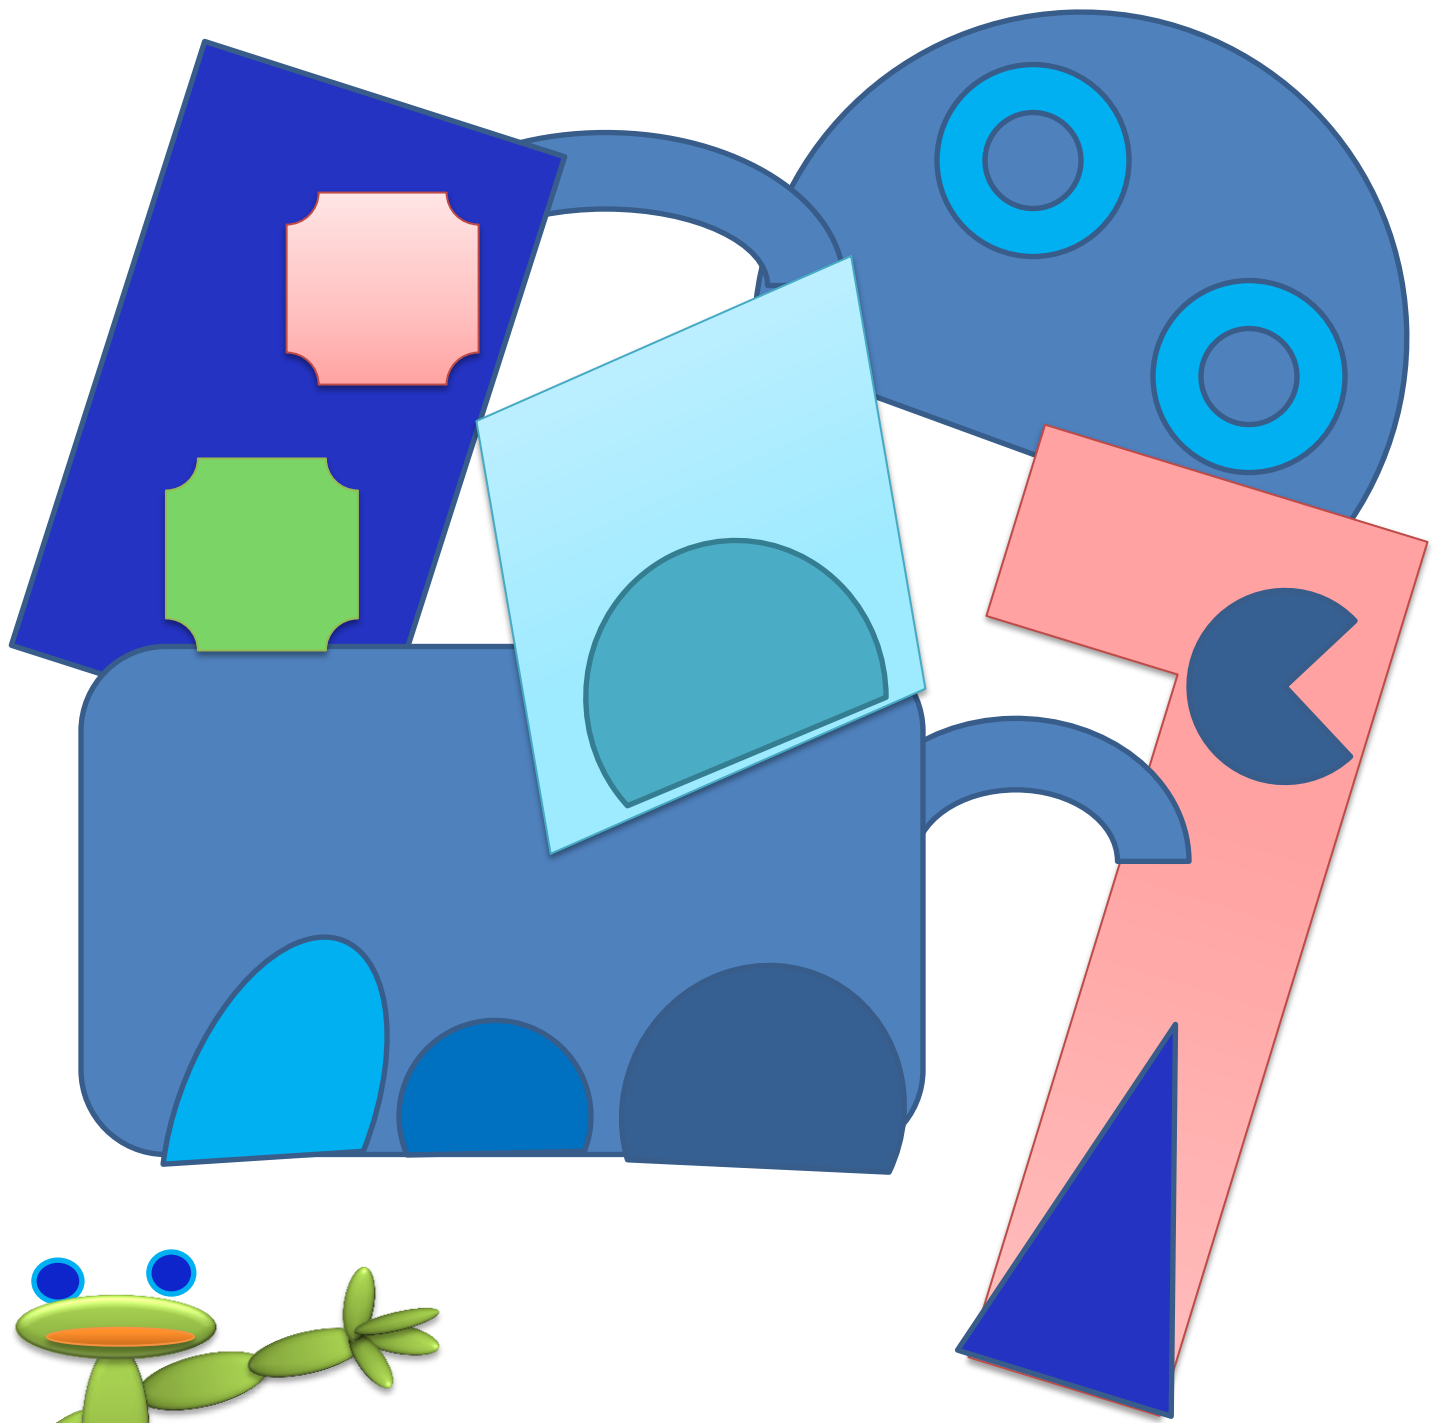

It was time to land as the screen on the CONTROLS indicated Planet Sky was approaching. Little Smart Froggie landed smoothly. The door opened and he stepped out. Very curious creatures were greeting him most excitedly. “Welcome, Smart Froggie of Earth. We have contest here for you and our smartest Caliboon Jack. “If only my friends were here with me!” thought Little Smart Froggie.

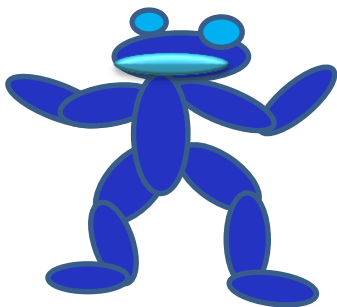

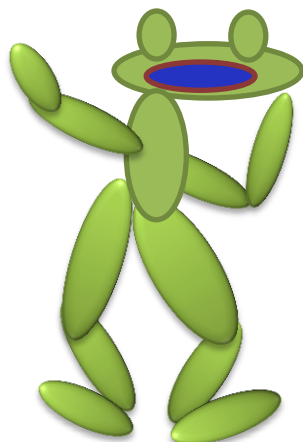

PLANET SKY

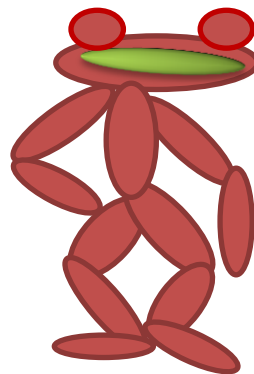

Sooner thought, sooner done! Four space ships arrive and from them come The Blue frog, the Frog Who-Could-Swim-So-Well, the Tree frog, and the Always-Handy Frog! “To have you my friends with me is the best thing in the world!” happily exclaimed Little Smart Froggie. Caliboon Jack and Little Smart Froggie assumed their places at the contest platforms. A Big Caliboon drew a question out of a basket.

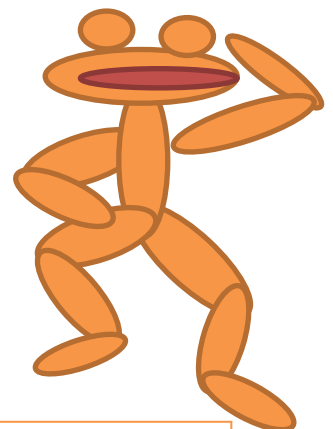

THE BLUE FROG

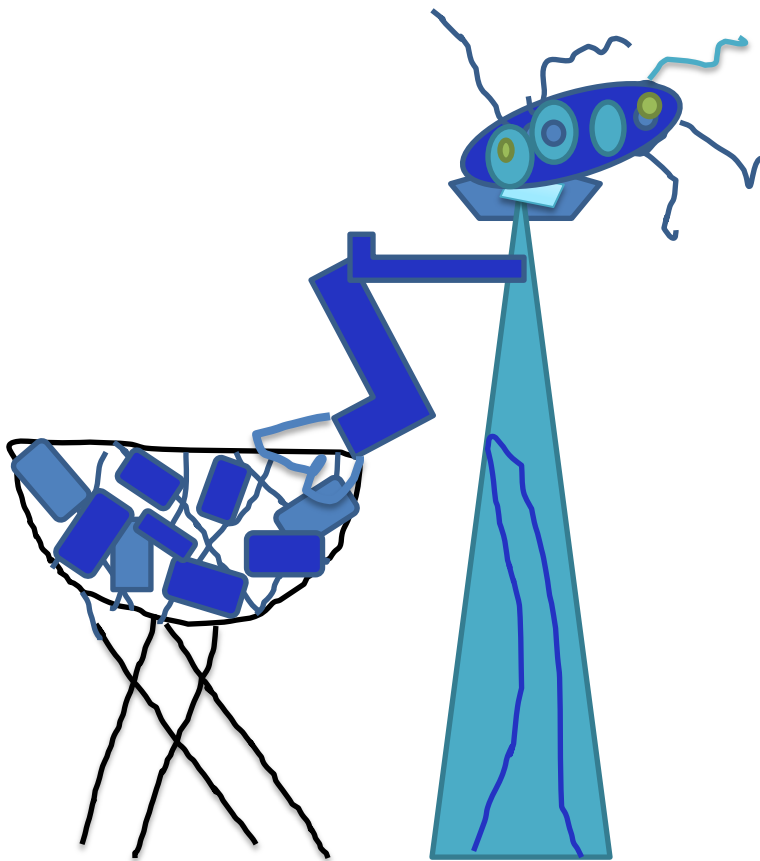

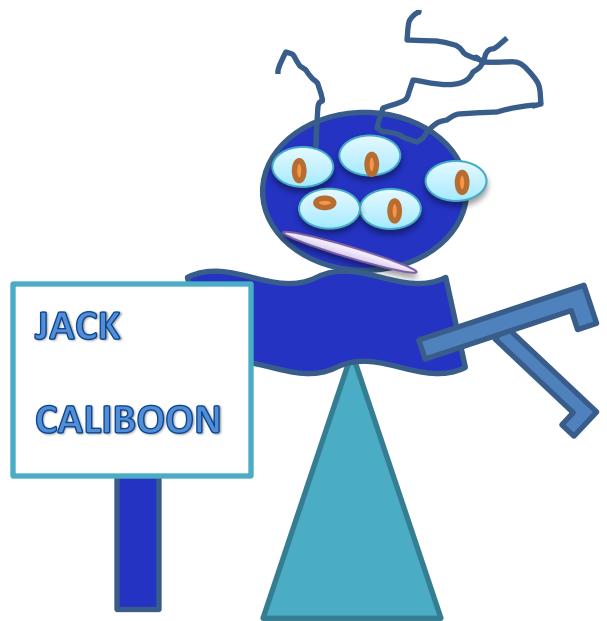

THE FROG WHO-COULD-SWIM-SO-WELL

THE TREE FROG

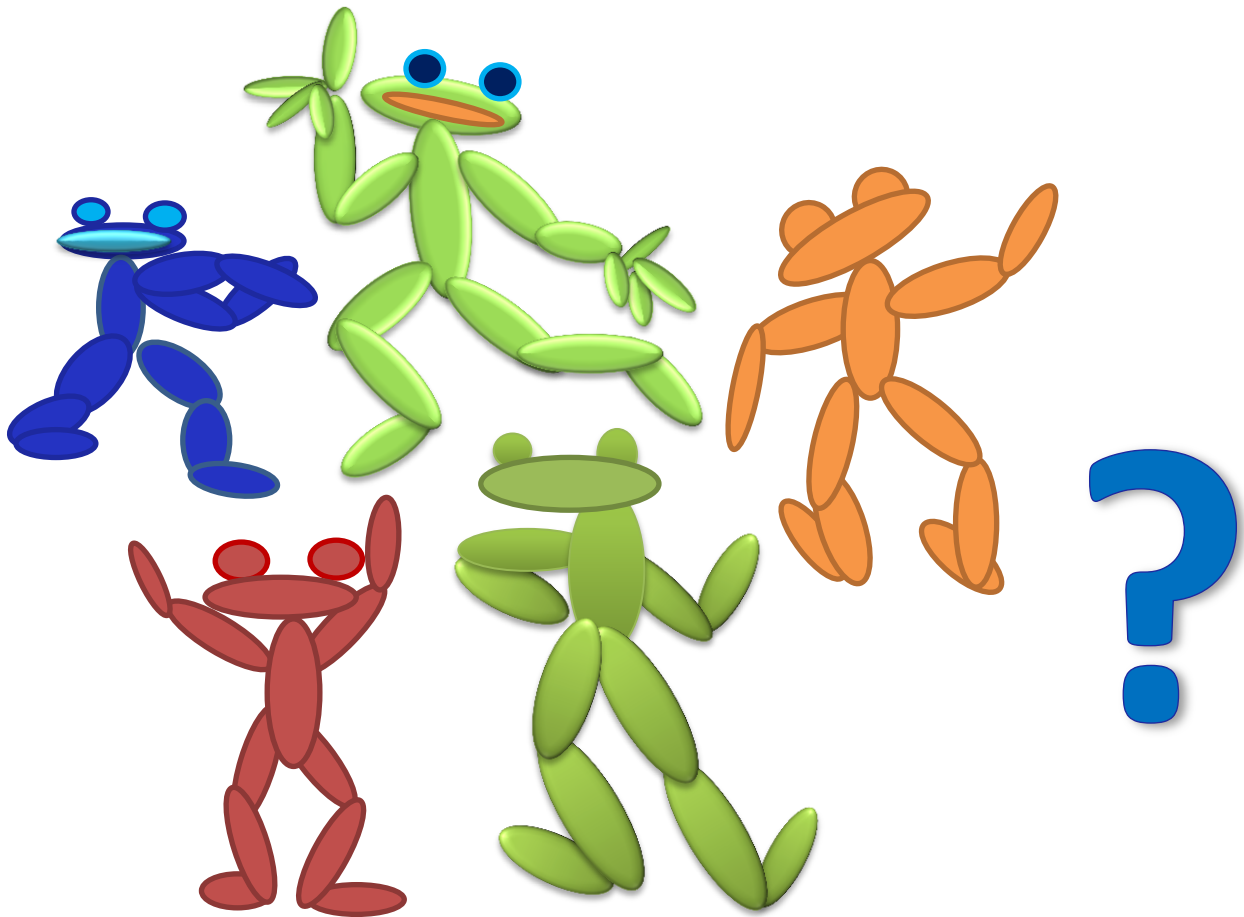

ALWAYS-HANDY

The question was: WHAT IS THE MOST IMPORTANT COLOR IN THE WORLD?

Little Smart Froggie was allowed to consult with his friends. “They must be kidding! What do we see most of when we walk out of our house and look up?”

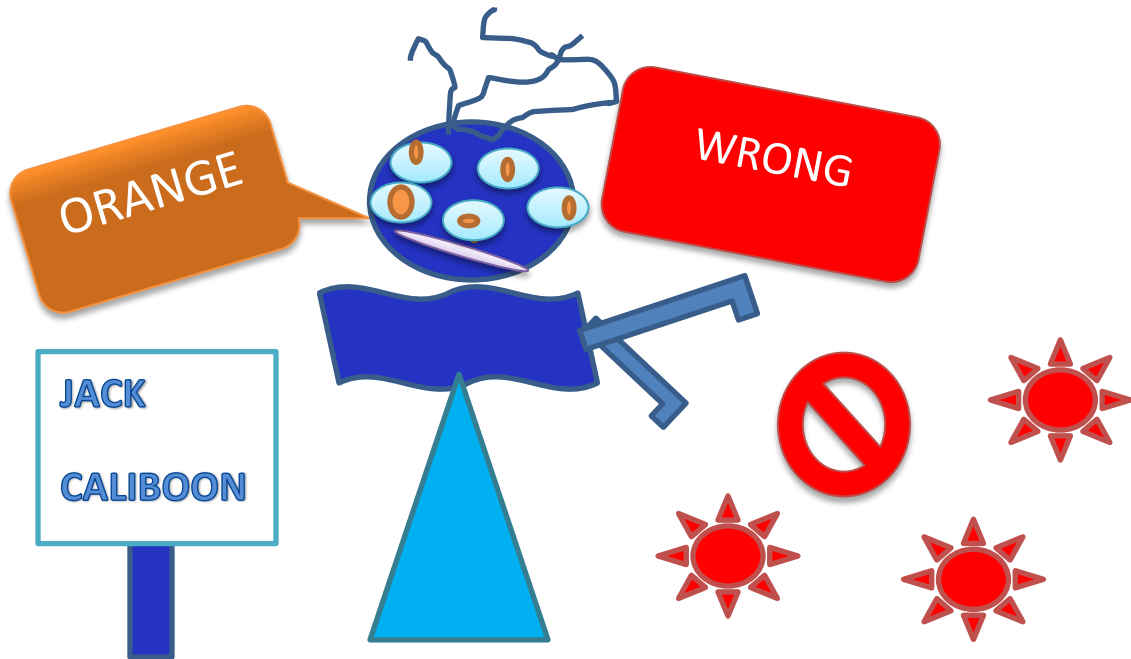

And what color is everyone here?”

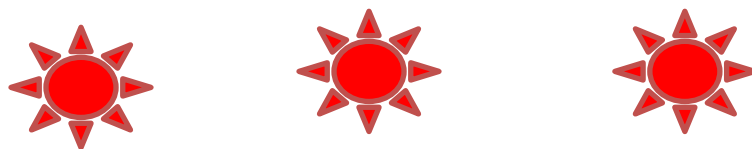

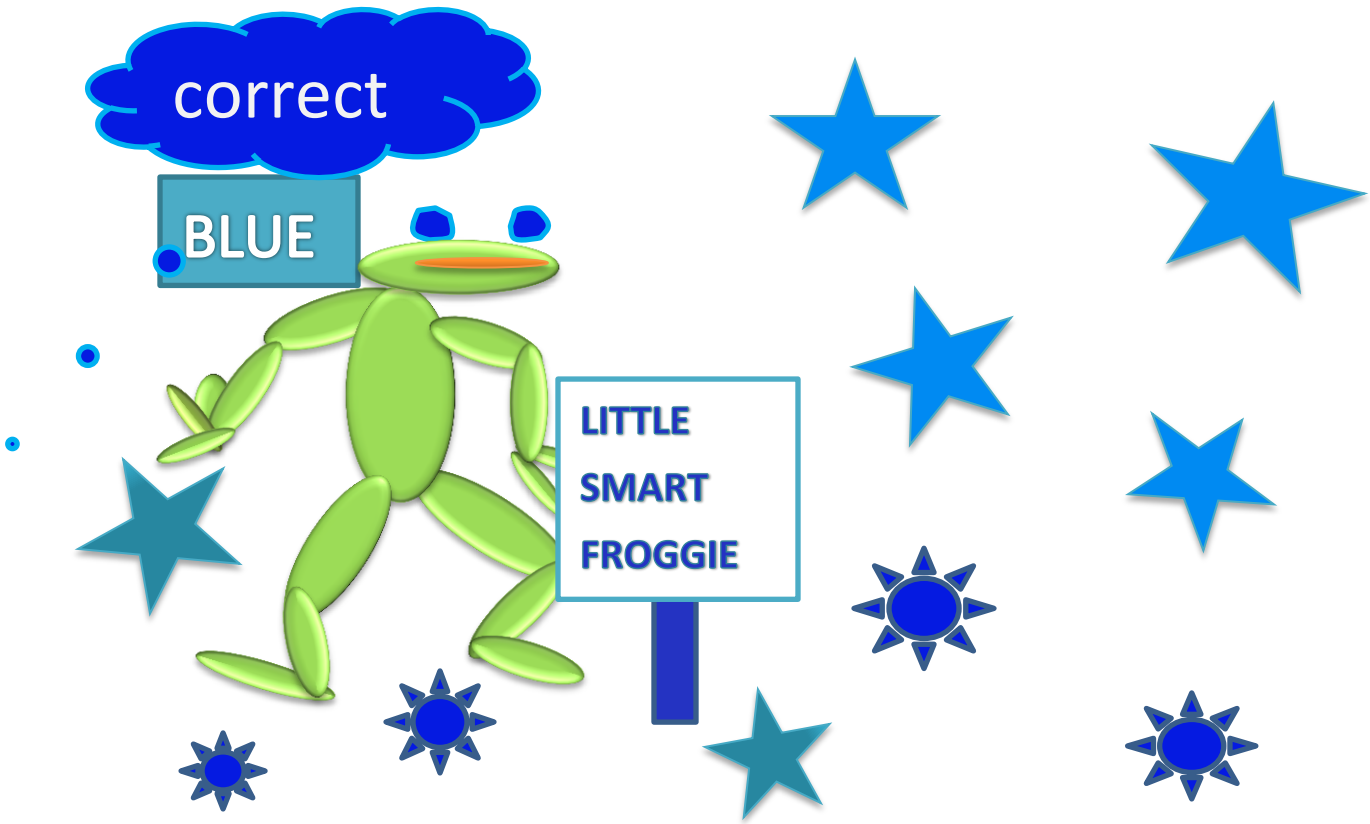

Caliboon Jack likewise consulted with his friends. They were arguing, cursing each other out, there was even a fist fight. Big Caliboon put a stop to that.

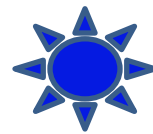

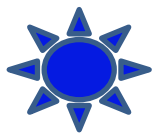

It was time for an answer. Caliboon Jack was first: ‘Orange’ – red light flashed. “wait wait” shouted Jack and his friends.” It is yellow, the color of the Sun”. Again red light flashing. “Then is green”. Red light...

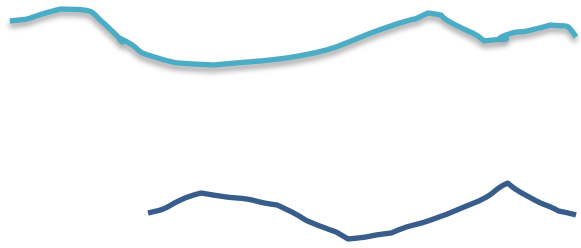

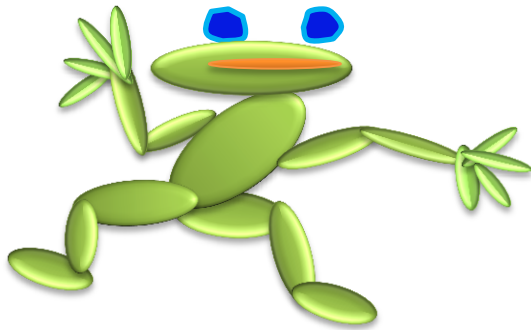

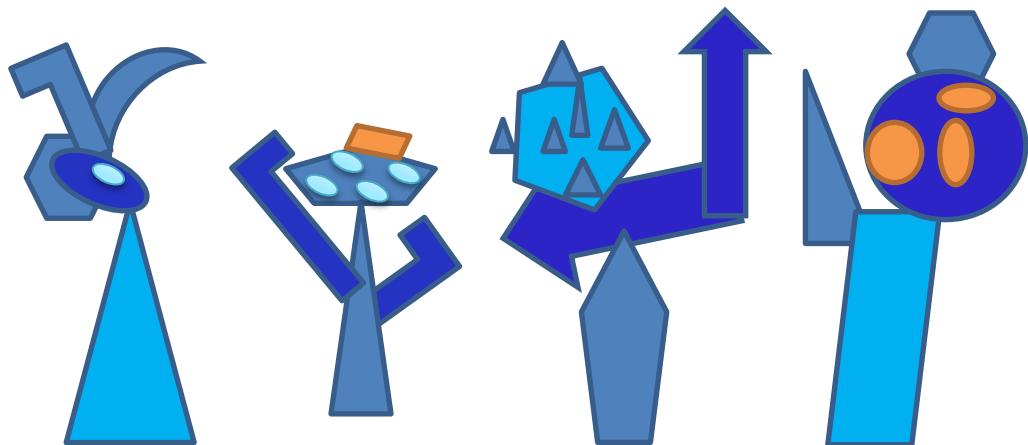

It was Little Smart Froggie's turn. Silence was most intense. In a very clear voice Little Smart Froggie said "BLUE".

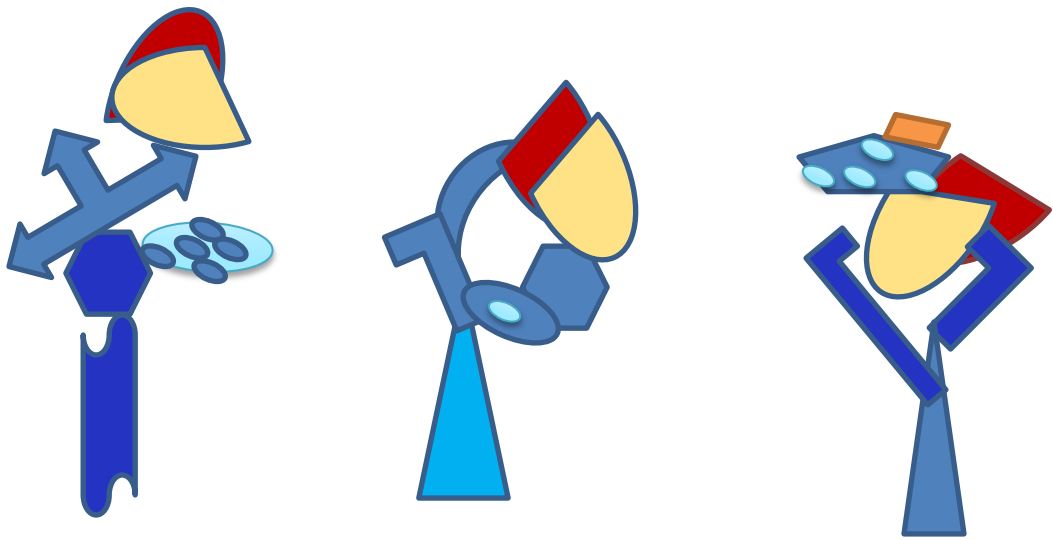

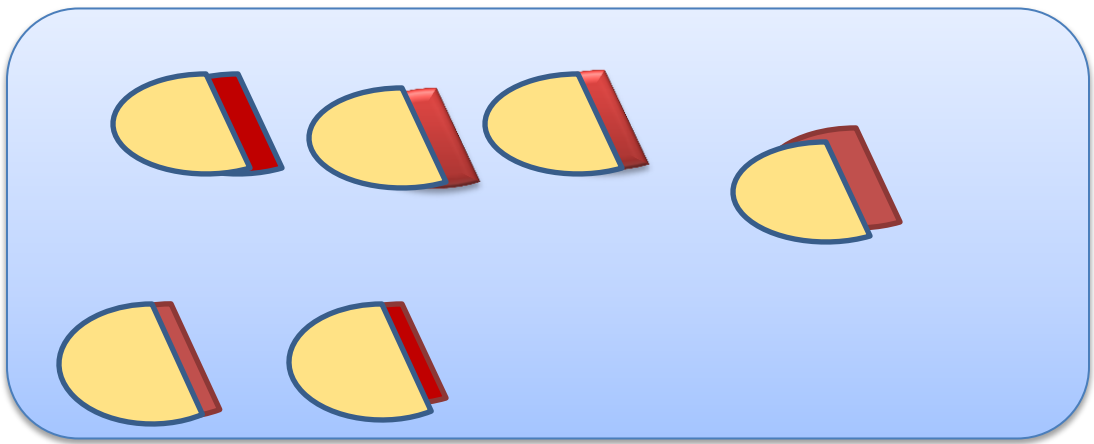

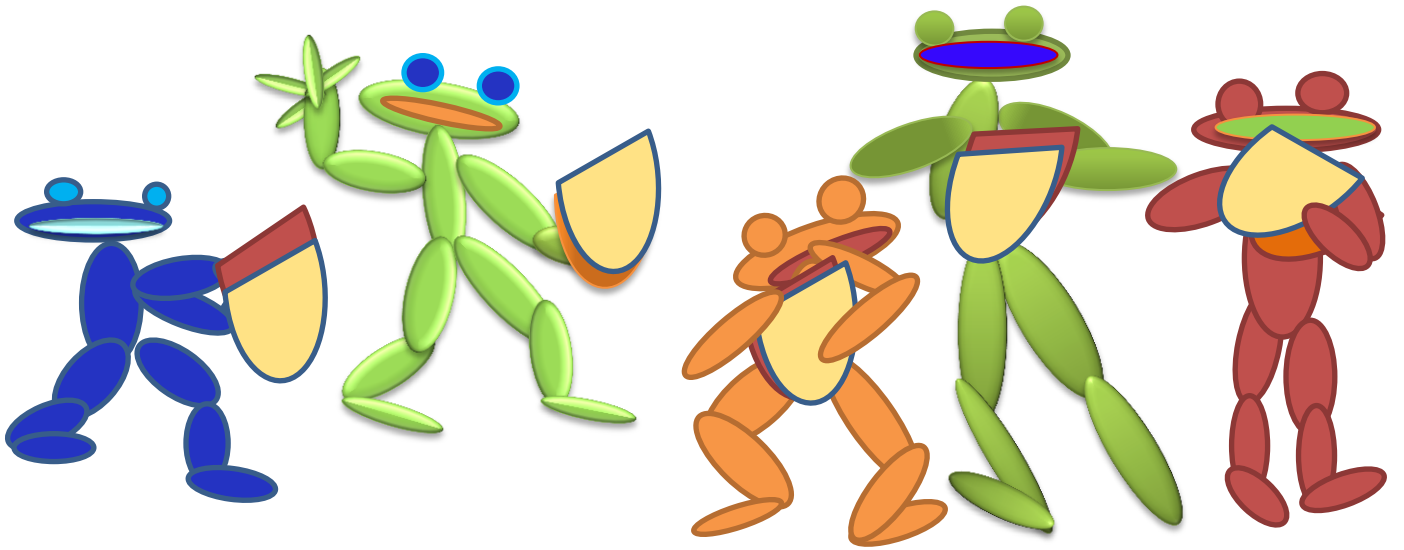

Blue lights were flashing, everyone cheering, all kinds of congratulations.

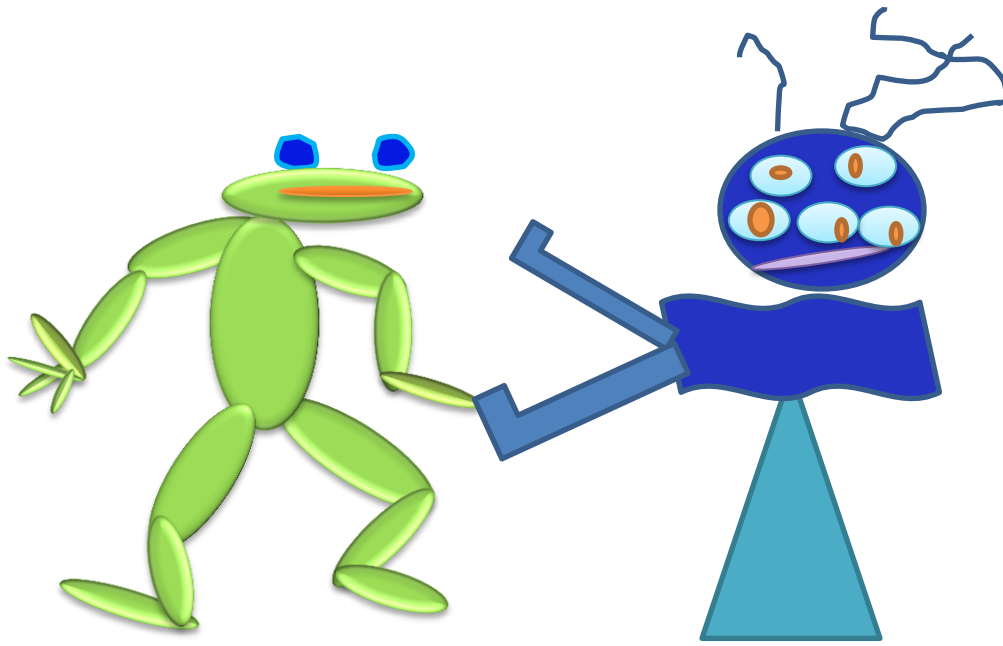

Little Smart Froggie was thrown in the air and caught by the excited crowd. All that made everyone extremely hungry. A large spread of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches suddenly appeared and all were gorging on them. “Wow, they taste just like my mom’s – the best ever!” “Well, they are from your lunchbox we spawned them!”

After all that goodbyes were said, friendships were made. Little Smart Froggie and his friends stepped into their space ships and landed in front of school. The bell was just about to stop when they hopped out and crowded into the class ready for the next lesson.

