

To whom it may concern,

I am happy to recommend Lon Montgomery and Leed Corp Quality Built Homes to anyone considering building a custom home.

From the beginning, Lon took the time to listen to what we wanted and understand what mattered most to our family. He helped us create a home that is not only beautiful, but truly feels like ours. The finished home is everything I dreamed of and more.

One of the things we appreciated most was Lon's responsiveness and willingness to work with us throughout the entire process. Whenever we wanted to add something, make an adjustment, or explore an idea, he was quick to get us the information and pricing we needed. He made changes feel simple and manageable, never like an inconvenience. His ability to make things happen while keeping the process moving was impressive.

Lon communicated with us often, answered our questions honestly, and was always willing to help. He brought a positive, calm, and professional attitude to every conversation, which made a major difference during what can be a stressful process. We always felt heard, respected, and confident that he wanted our home to be right for us.

It is clear that Lon takes pride in his work and cares about the people he builds for. We are incredibly grateful for the care, quality, and attention he gave our home. I would confidently recommend Lon Montgomery and Leed Corp Quality Built Homes to anyone looking for a builder who is dependable, communicative, accommodating, and committed to building a quality custom home.
