

PMO Re-engineering

Driving Measurable Delivery Outcomes · Thursday 24 September 2026

A half-day working session on PMO governance and delivery throughput: what is worth keeping, what adds friction in practice, and what can be changed with measurable effect. The group is kept small and the format is discussion-led, so the conversation stays at working level rather than at the level of a presentation.

WHAT THE SESSION COVERS

- 1 Which governance controls still earn their place, and which now produce reporting rather than decisions.
- 2 Where delivery friction actually sits: process, capacity, or decisions waiting on someone.
- 3 How the contents of the portfolio line up against what the organisation said it wanted.
- 4 A small set of delivery measures that hold up under scrutiny from an executive committee.

WHO THIS IS FOR

Senior PMO leads, heads of transformation, and portfolio or delivery directors with five or more years in the role.

Bringing a colleague from the same PMO is encouraged. The discussion tends to be more useful when two people who share the same constraints are in the room.

FORMAT AND CERTIFICATION

Micro-learning format: short inputs, structured peer discussion, and practical frameworks you can apply to your own portfolio. No product presentation.

Participants receive a certificate issued through Credly (Pearson VUE), at no cost.
