Alejandro De Hoyos (producer/director)
Passport Preachers (film)

You may have seen Alejandro De Hoyos on the court with The San Antonio Spurs or traveling the world producing content for your favorite national networks. From his humble beginnings growing up in the east side of San Antonio to the excitement of winning multiple Emmy Awards, De Hoyos hasn't forgotten his roots and continues to give back to the community with film internships along with multiple film & video workshops.

Alejandro De Hoyos is on a film festival run with his first feature documentary that was shot entirely on location in India, Uganda, and Kenya. The film has been selected to The San Antonio Film Festival which for the first time be held online as a virtual film festival.

“This film was truly shot all over the world and I’m so honored to bring this home to screen at the San Antonio Film Festival for its first ever Virtual Online Experience, we are very excited to see what happens. -
