

Behavioral Science Initiative: Nondiscrimination and Accessibility Notice

Discrimination Is Against the Law

Behavioral Science Initiative (BSI) complies with applicable federal civil rights laws and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, disability, sex, religion, gender identity, sexual orientation, or any other characteristic protected by applicable law.

BSI does not exclude individuals from participation in, deny them the benefits of, or otherwise treat them differently because of a protected characteristic.

Behavioral Science Initiative:

Provides educational programs, workshops, trainings, publications, and resources that are intended to be accessible and available to all individuals regardless of protected status.

Provides reasonable accommodations, when feasible, to support participation in BSI-sponsored educational programs, workshops, community events, and training activities.

Provides educational materials in accessible electronic formats when available.

Strives to make behavioral science resources, learning opportunities, and community programs available to diverse audiences.

If you require an accommodation or have questions regarding accessibility, please contact BSI.

If you believe that Behavioral Science Initiative has failed to provide these services or has discriminated in another way on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, disability, sex, religion, gender identity, sexual orientation, or another protected characteristic, you may file a grievance with:

Behavioral Science Initiative
Attn: Civil Rights Coordinator
Email: BehavioralSI@gmail.com

You may file a grievance by email. If you need assistance filing a grievance, the Civil Rights Coordinator is available to help.
