HOT GOSSIP ON THE STARS OF SCREEN & DVD

What's hot and what's not in Tinseltown with our US showbiz correspondent, Tiffany Rose

SHE MAY BE crazy about her fella Kid Rock, but Pamela Anderson says she can't live with some of his annoying bedtime rituals. The rapper likes to drift off to sleep every night listening to the relaxing sounds of Mozart, but the classical music keeps Pam awake! Even worse, Kid insists on wearing geeky flannel pyjamas to bed, but Pammy finds his attire a bit of a turn-off! When the former Baywatch star asked Kid if he could sleep in his birthday suit, the singer insisted the jammies are the only way he can get a good night's kip! We wish you luck, Pam!

Teary Oscar-winner Halle Berry is the talk of Tinseltown at the moment. Before she set off to shoot her role in the new 007 movie, the stunning actress enjoyed a shopping spree on LA's trendy Melrose Avenue. Halle was in a vintage store when her eye caught a one-of-a-kind $600 hand-beaded dress, which a woman was about to purchase at the counter. Without hesitating, Halle ran up to the customer and declared that she really wanted it and would splash out an extra $200 for the garment. The poor sales assistant insisted it was first come, first served, but Halle wasn't giving up though, and offered to pay a whopping $1,200 for the dress. The woman couldn't refuse. Who says money doesn't buy you happiness?

Now that Frasier star Kelsey Grammer is raking in a million dollars an episode, he can afford to build a helipad in the back yard of his Malibu mansion so he can commute to work by chopper. I guess it beats the early morning traffic!

Michelle Pfeiffer has a 'no steamy love scenes' clause in her movie contracts. She reveals: "I avoid those scenes because of the teasing my children might get at school!"

Congratulations to Melanie Griffith who finally beat her dependence on painkillers, but now the blonde bombshell has a new addiction – shopping! Hubby Antonio Banderas is a little concerned that she might be exchanging one addiction for another – still, this one's definitely a lot healthier!

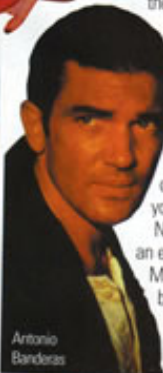

Want to know where the stars go to detox and lose some extra 'partying pounds'? To 'We Care', an exclusive diet retreat just outside of Palm Springs. Best buddies Matt Damon and Ben Affleck, along with Ben's baby brother Casey, recently checked into the health centre, where they lived on juices and were given daily colonics to cleanse their systems.

Jennifer Lopez panicked recently when she couldn't find her unique $10,000 diamond-encrusted phone, which was a gift from her new husband, Cris Judd. The mobile also contained the numbers of her family and celebrity friends. After several hours, the star finally figured where she had left it – in her local Starbucks. Luckily, an employee had handed the phone in to lost and found. Jennifer was so relieved at being reunited with her toy, she tipped the guy $300!

The West Wing's Rob Lowe is officially a cool dad. His sons Edward, 9, and John, 7 are fascinated by Bigfoot, so he took them on a long drive to the snowy Oregon forests in a bid to track it down. However, Rob had secretly packed a costume resembling the Abominable Snowman in the boot of his jeep. While his kids were setting up camp, Rob slipped off and put on the costume, then jumped out from the trees in an attempt to scare his sons. But they weren't a bit phased – in fact, they couldn't stop laughing at their silly dad!
