

The Pledge Parents Guide

This is a guide to help parents talk to their young children about the dangers in today's illicit drugs.

The pledge is for parents to get a commitment from their child that they acknowledge the dangers of Fentanyl and other illicit drugs. They understand that one pill can kill, there is no room for experimenting with them.

This is a very important subject because the country is seeing a record number of overdose/poisonings due to fake pills being made with Fentanyl and other synthetic drugs.

This is designed to be an ice breaker so parents can easily talk to children and plant the seed for them not to try any illicit drug.

This is ideal for children as young as elementary school students that don't have an addiction with drugs.
