

The Speaker: James W. Browning, PhD

Workshops and Seminars

A recognized leadership authority, Dr. Browning is a senior leader, professor, leadership coach, author, and speaker.

As a speaker and presenter, Dr. Browning conducted workshops for hundreds of leaders such as “Setting Yourself Up for Success Both Professionally and Personally.” He has been a featured speaker at special events such as the Government Accountability Organization (GAO) workshops, the Society of Advanced Management (SAM) annual conference, the US State Department, the US Department of Defense, and the Harvard Faculty Club.

For four years he served as the initial guest speaker for faculty and students at the Air War College in Montgomery, Alabama. Recently, Brigadier General Coffelt stated:

On behalf of the Air War College Class of 2017, thank you for your outstanding presentation. Your meaningful insights into leading at the strategic level and specifically the importance of self-awareness and emotional intelligence were of great value to our students and faculty. Since your published work is required reading in several of our instructional periods, it's clear the faculty greatly values your insights.

Dr. Browning offers leaders of any organization nationally or internationally—business, government, military, or nonprofit—a unique perspective on what it takes to prepare for and, once selected, to thrive in a senior leadership position. Based on his various leadership roles and interviews and discussions with more than two hundred CEOs, VPs, and senior military and government leaders—of which more than sixty contributed to the manuscript—he is well qualified to author The Truth about Senior Leadership.

Dr. Browning is a graduate of the US Naval Academy and earned an MA in Human Resources Management (Pepperdine University), an MBA (National University), and a PhD in Leadership and Human Behavior (Alliant International University). He is a graduate of the National War College and attended executive leadership programs at Wharton, Cornell, Babson, and the Center for Creative Leadership.
