

6 Tips for Organizing Your Pantry

Everyone wishes that their pantry could be perfectly organized all the time. Believe it or not, an organized pantry is something that is easily achievable when you keep in mind that done is better than perfect! Here are some quick tips:

Start from Scratch

Empty the contents of your pantry onto a table top. Go through each product and toss what is expired. While the pantry is empty, wipe down the shelves and give the space some much needed cleaning.

Don't Lose Sight of Cans and Spices

Smaller items like cans of soup, condiments, and spices can easily get lost behind large cereal boxes. Invest in a Lazy Susan turntable to keep these items visible.

Use Door Space

Make the most of the space in your kitchen by adding over-the-door racks to the inside of pantry doors for extra storage.

Categorize

Define sections of your pantry into different categories. Have one space for baking products, another area for pasta, and so on. Be conscious of the height at which you place these items. Put kid friendly snacks on lower shelves where they can easily access them, and glass jars of tomato sauce higher up out of harm's way.

Containers and Labeling

To help you stay organized, use clear plastic containers to store products of one category all in one place. Label these bins so you know exactly where to look. Remove bulk packaging and put items in space-saving bins and canisters.

Stay on Top of Things

Your pantry can get cluttered and disorganized quickly with every trip to the grocery store. Repeat tip one as needed to maintain all the hard work you put into your new organized space!
