

Solutions to Sample Questions.

Q1. What can happen if you refuse a police roadside blood alcohol screening test?

- A. A first time refusal means a warning on your record with no option to refuse the next time.
- B. You have the option to take the test sometime over the next 24 hours.
- C. You can opt to go to the nearest police station to take a Breathalyzer test.
- D. Your driver's licence will be suspended, and you could face criminal charges.

Q2. Which of the following situations may result in a court ordered driving suspension?

- A. If you do not have proper insurance for your vehicle.
- B. If you are caught driving over the speed limit by 50 km/h or more.
- C. If you have a medical issue that affects your ability to drive safely.
- D. All of the above.

Q3. What must you do before the G2 road test which includes highway driving?

- A. Rewrite the G1 level test and get a higher score than before.
- B. Prove to the driving examiner that you have a valid G1 licence.
- C. Prove that you do not suffer from colour blindness.
- D. Sign a Declaration of Highway Driving Experience which provides specific details of your personal highway driving history.