

Behavior Policy

"Color Your Dreams"

My goal is to maintain a space that's not only artistic but also respectful, patient, and bursting with creativity. Picture it like a canvas waiting to be painted with positive energy! However, as much as I love colors on paper, I'm not a fan of disruptive behavior. To ensure that my studio remains a haven for creativity, we kindly ask everyone to embrace the following guidelines:

Respectful Conduct – The Canvas of Harmony:

Just like a masterpiece, my studio thrives on positive vibes. Disrespectful or disruptive behavior is not tolerated.

The "Red Paint" Moment – Our Artistic Intervention:

In the unlikely event that I encounter behavior that disrupts the harmony of our creative space, consider it our "red paint" moment. I will reach out to parents immediately to ensure that the issue is addressed promptly and constructively. It's my way of ensuring that everyone in our artistic community feels safe and valued.

Consequences and Accountability:

I want to channel energies into creating vibrant masterpieces, not managing disruptions. If you need to come pick up your child, no refunds or credits will be given for missed time due to disruptive/poor behavior. Your understanding and cooperation in this matter are deeply appreciated.

The Power of a Conversation:

As a classroom teacher, I've learned that a simple conversation can often redirect behavior. If there's an issue, we'll make a call to discuss it, and together, we can work towards a resolution. It's all about guiding our young artists towards a path of positive growth and understanding.
