Fallen Comrades

It is with deep regret that we announce the following members have passed on since we last gathered together.

Name	Age	Date	Service
Fred Brocks	95	8 Mar 2026	O
Lynn Brocks	87	4 Aug 2026	A
Roger Lennie	90	4 Aug 2026	O
Peter Rivard	72	7 Jan 2026	A

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old; Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun and in the morning. We will remember them.

NATIONAL POPPY CAMPAIGN DATES STANDARDIZED

Beginning in 2026, the campaign will run each year from October 24 through November 11.

Previously, the campaign began on the last Friday in October and varied from 12 to 18 days. Consistent annual dates will provide greater certainty and reduce the impact that weekends, business hours and local circumstances can have during a shorter campaign.

Benefits of a consistent campaign period

- more opportunities for Canadians to obtain and wear a Poppy
- more time to collect donations in support of Veterans and their families
- greater certainty for businesses, schools and community organizations planning their participation improved national coordination and public messaging

The Poppy Campaign is a meaningful way for members to meet others, become involved in their Branch and take part in one of the Legion's most important traditions.

Thank you to the countless volunteers whose dedication to Branch's Poppy Campaign!

Signup up sheets are now available in the front entrance for you to fill a position that works for you.

THE NEWLY ELECTED DOMINION OFFICERS FOR 2026

“EXHAUSTION, WEARINESS, & REST”

I want to begin by saying I am grateful to be able to serve members of the R.C.L. Kingsway Branch as your Padre. I had no idea that when I first said yes, in the fall of 2016, that some ten years later I would still have the privilege of serving in this capacity. I have now served under Mac Torrie x2, Ron Wills, Bill Fecteau, and now under Rick Etmanski, and while each of these presidents have led our Legion with a different style and leadership strengths, it has been my honour to do so.

As I have been involved with members of our legion, I have made some significant observations. I have observed a smaller number of members involved in a variety of areas, and I am grateful that our Legion is in good hands. And, this brings me to the topic I am writing about this month. Having served as a twenty-four-year member of the RCMP, and then as an ordained clergyperson for the next thirty years. In both of my careers I have served at a variety of levels, and areas of responsibilities. In that span of time, I have observed where both members of the Force, (including me) and members of the clergy (again including me) did not feel the freedom to admit that they were near the end of their emotional ability to safely and adequately carry out their duties. I am grateful that so much of that thinking, is a thing of the past, and there is help available.

I know we typically attribute burn out to younger people, working full time in a variety of careers that are demanding. But, how do we prevent that from happening to any of us, who are involved in serving others, whether in a full-time vocational area, or as volunteers? I am going to make, several observations, but before I do, I give credit to Sheldon Schmidt, Director of Fairhaven Retreat Center, in Vernon B.C. I use some of his ideas and comments, with his permission.

QUOTE: “Burn-out, exhaustion and weariness, fatigue are not confined to any one single occupation.”

Quote: “I spent more than 20 years working in the financial industry. I worked for investment banks and large corporations, and was also the CFO of a mid-sized entrepreneurial business. In 2012, I was in a role that, by all outward appearances, should have been fulfilling. I led a large team, I was well compensated, and I had a career I had worked hard to build. But I was exhausted, unfulfilled, and I couldn't understand why. One Day I remember coming home and telling my wife, “I died a little today.”

At the time, I didn't know I was experiencing burnout. I didn't have the language for it or the framework to understand what was happening inside me. I thought I needed to push through. I thought I should be able to handle it. And, if I'm honest, I wondered if there was something wrong with me for feeling the way I did. Looking back, I wish I had understood sooner that exhaustion, fatigue and weariness, isn't always something to overcome. Sometimes it is an invitation to pay attention. And I don't think my experience is particularly unusual.

Burnout, weariness, or exhaustion don't care what you do for a living. It can happen to someone in the Military, a Business owner, a Parent, a Healthcare worker, an Executive, a Teacher, or someone who simply feels the weight of too many demands for too long. Most, if not all of us know someone who is carrying more than they let on, or perhaps many of us have been in that same position.

“EXHAUSTION, WEARINESS, & REST” CONT'D

We live in a culture that equates busyness with importance and wears exhaustion almost like a badge of honour - a culture that glorifies the grind. There's always another email, another meeting, another deadline, another person who needs something from us. Even meaningful and worthwhile work can slowly wear us down when we never make space to step away."

Unquote

I am speaking to myself when I say this, some of our involvements at the Legion are very minor compared to others. We have a number of people who are engaged many hours per week, to ensure our Legion continues to function, and to be frank I often worry that I am not sure just how long they will be able to sustain the level at which they are serving us. There is always something more to do, and many of you understand that fully.

Somewhere along the way, many of us learned to think of rest as something we earn after the work is finished. We work hard, accomplish what needs to be accomplished, take care of everyone else, and then, if there is anything left, we rest. But the work is rarely finished. Jesus modelled something different. Throughout the Gospels, we see Him stepping away from the crowds. He went to quiet places and made time to pray. His life was full of purpose and responsibility, yet He did not seem to confuse being busy with being faithful.

Rest was part of His rhythm. I find that challenging because it is easy to believe that what we are doing is too important to stop. I can easily think, that taking time away is selfish or unproductive, especially when other people are depending on us.

But rest isn't a reward for getting everything done. It is part of how God made us - our bodies need it, our minds need it, our spirits need it. And perhaps most importantly, rest reminds us that our worth doesn't come from what we accomplish. I regularly stand in awe, when I think of Jesus, who was God here on earth, found it necessary to step away for a time and be refreshed. If God Himself needed refreshing, what makes me think I don't?

I want to add that "REST" looks different for each of us. But, needing rest does not mean "I Just quit," far from it. The question we each must ask is, "how do I feed my own soul and spirit," in the midst of the responsibilities I have committed to, and thereby re-energize my mind and body. Jesus did not say, "Quit your job, or whatever you are doing and isolate to some deserted Island. The Words of Jesus I am about to quote, are not a call to idleness, nor leaving the work for someone else. No, they are an invitation to REST. Jesus was talking to His Followers, who had been very active in sharing His Word and He said this for their benefit and I'm thinking for ours:

Matthew 11:28-30, New Living Translation. Then Jesus said, "Come to me, all of you who are weary and carry heavy burdens, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you. Let me teach you, because I am humble and gentle at heart, and you will find rest for your souls."

I'm thinking these are words that each of us could apply to our lives as we walk through the daily rhythms of our lives. Like I said last month, "we are better together." In the same token we are better when we do what we can, with the skills we have been gifted with, and not attempt to do more than we are able or should be doing.

VETERAN SUPPORT PROGRAM

The Royal Canadian Legion is strengthening its partnership with the Canadian Armed Forces (CAF) to improve access to disability benefits, services, and programs for Veterans, serving CAF members, and their families.

Government security-cleared Legion Command Service Officers can now meet clients at CAF Transition Centres across Canada, providing convenient access to expert guidance and support while reinforcing the Legion's role as a trusted advocate.

Veterans should never have to pay for help accessing benefits. The Legion is aware of organizations that charge fees, take a percentage of awards, or profit in hidden ways. Legion Command Service Officer assistance is professional, ethical — and always free.

You do not have to be a member of the Legion to obtain support or assistance in receiving benefits or allowances from Veteran Affairs.

If you or a family member need support, contact a Legion Command Service Officer. The Edmonton Service Bureau is located at:

#102 – 10471 – 178 Street NW Edmonton, AB T5S 1R5

Phone: (780) 448-4982

OUR CENTENARY YEAR

Explore 100 Years of Legion History

2026 marks the Legion's Centenary year and we've created a beautiful, interactive website that chronicles major events and achievements of the Legion over the past century. From our founding and early advocacy for Veterans, through rehabilitation and national growth after the Second World War, to the modern era and new Veterans – the site is a treasure trove of history – and a great reminder to us all of the proud legacy we all share as Legion members.

It's March 13, 2002 and 3 PPCLI, including a Canadian sniper in British fatigues, launches Canada's first combat assault since the Korean War on a mountain called Whale's Back

Retired Master Corporal Mike Trauner, an Invictus Games gold medalist, now serves as an ambassador for The Royal Canadian Legion National Youth Tack and Field Championships.

WHAT'S HAPPENING AT THE LADIES AUXILIARY

Your Ladies Auxiliary is back in full swing going into fall.

The 2027 memberships are due.

Saturday, October 3 meat draw will feature six hams and six turkeys. We will also have some beautiful quilts that were donated to us on display which we will sell to the highest bidder (note we will have a minimum reserve bid). Saturday, October 17 is the next Free Fun Bingo.

We do help out the Kipnes Centre at their monthly Birthday celebrations by helping to bring the residents from their rooms for the celebration. Volunteers are always appreciated.

Dates are:

October 22

November 17

December 22

October Ladies Auxiliary General Meeting is moved to October 27 due to our regular room being used by the Alberta Government as a Referendum polling station. The October 27 meeting will be first and second round nominations for the election in November.

The Ladies Auxiliary Raffle, Bake Sale and White Elephant table will be Saturday, December 12. The meat draw will feature turkeys and hams for the festive table. The raffle is always popular with the food hamper valued at $400.00, a variety of gift cards and a beautiful quilted bed set. Tickets are available from the front desk, members of the L.A. and at our Saturday meat draws and 50/50. Tickets are $2.00.

Donations of gently used items for the white elephant table are gratefully accepted.

THE LADY KILLAH

Uncle Sol decided to party, even though he just passed his 90th birthday. The super senior put on his best blue pin-striped suit, Pierre Cardin tie shoes and looked in the mirror.

"Eh, Solly you old dog, still a lady killer," he said to himself, putting a carnation in his lapel, as he made his way to the lounge in the Fontainebleau Hotel.

Seeing a lovely lady in her late eighties. Sol strolled over, took the stool beside her and ordered a Dr. Pepper. When it arrived, he sipped it slowly, turned slyly to the lady and asked:

"So darling, do I come here very often?"
