Bio:

Linda Robertson is an internationally published author. She won first place in the OSU/Mansfield Florence B. Allen writing competition (2006). Since then, she's published several novels and short stories.

In addition to the Immanence series, she is the author of the Persephone Alcmidi series. A lifelong musician, she also wrote, created, performed, produced, mixed and mastered a musical score/CD for the book series. She's even scored a few short films.

Formerly a graphic artist, she's recently taken up painting. Her art is featured on the covers and inside of the Immanence series and her collection, Widow's Bridge.

She attends various writing conventions and book festivals, blogs, and gives workshops about the craft of writing. A mother of four boys, Linda is married and lives in Northeast Ohio.

Tell me a bit about the Immanence series.

The Immanence Series is dark Urban Fantasy that spins religious lore and legend on its head. The main character, a young woman named Jovienne, is transformed into an angel. She doesn't truly understand what this entails at first. As she begins to understand, her dissatisfaction with her circumstances leads her down a dangerous path of both self-discovery and world-shattering secrets.

What do you think is the appeal of the Urban Fantasy genre?

To me, the greatest appeal in this genre is the stories that take ordinary people and makes them extraordinary. While they discover their epic destinies, much of their problem remain very human at the core. Whether they're vampires, witches, angels, demons or whatever, they are all just people searching for love, acceptance, and success. And somehow, amid the fantastic elements of their story, they also have to deal with jealous peers or demanding bosses or friends who let them down.

Tell me a little about your background in music.

I was a musician before I was a writer. My piano lessons started at age six. They re-started at age eight. At age sixteen my father bought me an electric guitar. By the age of seventeen I was playing lead in a hard rock cover band. Now, I compose dramatic orchestral music for my novels. I've composed music for a few short films, too. I'm a member of the Alliance of Women Film Composers (AWFC) and of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers (ASCAP) as both a songwriter and a publisher.

What do you do when you're not writing?

I dabble in so many hobbies! Sewing and costuming, crafts and faux finishes, upcycling furniture...but in 2022 I started painting on canvas. I've always drawn and I became a graphic artist decades ago. I love how versatile the computer can be, but brushes and canvas are a whole new challenge. It's also quite relaxing for me.

About the WIDOW'S BRIDGE collection:

Nearly twenty years in the making, WIDOW'S BRIDGE features both new and previously published short fantasy stories, a specific selection of never-before-seen early artwork by Linda, and a bit of her poetry. Among the previously published stories, you'll meet an evil toothfairy, a man trapped in a chilling predicament, a mother-warrior trying to do what she thinks is right, and, for fans of my Persephone Alcmеди series, you'll get to read the prequel that reveals why Nana(Demeter) was kicked out of the nursing home and forced to live with Persephone. In the new tales, there's a man at the end of his rope, a Brother of Justice seeking vengeance, and more. In the featured title, WIDOW'S BRIDGE, a well-to-do middle child believes in true love even in the face of dire circumstances.

About the PERSEPHONE ALCMEDI series:

The Persephone Alcmеди series is set in and around Cleveland, and uses/sites many truly existing places such as the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame, the May Co. building, the William G. Mather, the rotunda of the Richland Trust, the now destroyed Cleveland Cold Storage building, and much more.

Although Simon & Schuster's imprint Pocket Books has no interest in completing the series, books 7-9 remain in developmental stages. Linda has the audio book rights and she plans to develop those some day.

But that was before the fairies started demanding the death of Seph's frightening, unpredictable ally: the ancient vampire Menessos. Her mostly secret bond to Menessos not only causes serious strain on the budding relationship with Johnny, but, worse, if the other witches knew about the connection they could demand she be Bindspoken, locking away all her power--and a showdown with the fairies is growing more and more inevitable...
