

4C EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING TRAINING

David Kolb, a leading scholar of experiential learning, said: experience + reflection = learning. This is our motto that we have been teaching. What is experiential learning? It can also be called " activity learning " i.e. learning by doing and reflection. Foreign literature also has a saying " Tell me and I will forget. Show me and I will remember. Involve me and I will understand. "

Indeed, it is important to participate in the activity to learn.

The activity gives participants space to learn about the world around them, to develop social relationships, to understand culture, to express feelings, to learn from multiple perspectives and to think flexibly, to solve problems, and to sharpen communication skills.

Through the activity, the participants gain experience, through professional reflection, experience become learning and eventually become part of their lives. We believe that every scene in life is an experience. Each experience if professionally reflected will become a very good opportunity to learn and grow. This training transforms experiences into powerful sources of learning through our specially designed experiential learning activities and the use of professional reflecting skills.

4C EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING TRAINING

Reflecting skills include :

- 4F: Facts, Feelings, Findings, and Future
- Picture Postcards
- Horseshoe
- Turntable
- Spokes
- Metaphor Maps
- Storyline
- Simultaneous Survey
- Missing Person
- Dream Drawing
- Back to the Future
- Future Walking
- Appreciative Competition
- Action Replay
- Moving Stones
- Success Chart
- Goal Keepers

