

Weekly News

Assalaamalaikum Parents! Truly, it has been a cold winter week and I pray everyone has kept warm and remained safe. The attendance has been very low so a lot of what I planned to teach will be delayed to next week, Insha'Allah. Dear Parents, while you read to your child, have them point out the sight words to you. This is a good way to remind them of what they have learned in class. Thank you for your patience and support in our kindergartners' learning experience.

Dates to Remember

Feb 18th: President's Day-
No school

Sight Words

sc-	tw-	blue
sl-	tr-	find
sk-	sw-	me
sm-	are	where
sn-	too	it
sp-	-ct	have st-		we

Reminders

- Please remember to sign and return your child's report card that was distributed on Friday the 25th
- Continue reading to your child and signing their reading log
- Continue to review your child's counting from 1 to 100

Star Student

Our two stars this week are Amar Siari and Salsabil Abuhashish. They were able to make it to school on both Tuesday and Friday in this freezing weather. Not only that, they helped organize the books in our library and practiced all their sight words using alphabet blocks. Salsabil and Amar are so excited to learn and grow, as are all of our kindergarteners, Alhumdulillah.

A Look at Next Week...

We will continue cutting and pasting the new sight words, beginning blends and now, even ending blends for the new sight boards. With all these new words and blends we have learned, we will create a book. In math, we will learn how to count money. For social studies, I am focusing on behaviors that are allowed, not allowed and evaluating the students using chart paper with categories. Insha'Allah I look forward to seeing

