

This week in Social Studies

10/12-10/16

6th Grade

This week, 6th graders reviewed their knowledge of ancient civilizations, focusing on Mesopotamia, the Phoenicians, geography, trade, and important vocabulary. Students completed study guides and participated in a fun classroom Jeopardy game to prepare for their test. They ended the week by taking their Social Studies test to demonstrate their understanding of the material.

7th Grade

This week, 7th graders reviewed their lessons on Colonial America, including the development of the English colonies, colonial regions, farming, trade, and daily life. Students strengthened their understanding through study guides, class discussions, and an interactive Jeopardy review game. They concluded the week by completing their Social Studies test on the material covered.

Coming up...

Next week, students in grades 6-8 will begin exploring new topics in their respective history units following this week's assessments. We will build on previously learned concepts, introduce new vocabulary, and examine important historical events, civilizations, and developments. Students will continue strengthening their critical thinking and historical analysis skills through readings, class discussions, and engaging activities.

8th Grade

This week, 8th graders focused on reviewing ancient civilizations, including the Assyrians, Chaldeans, and other important developments in Mesopotamian history. Students practiced key vocabulary, revisited major historical events, and participated in a classroom Jeopardy review game. They finished the week by taking their Social Studies quiz to assess their understanding of the unit.
