

This week in Social Studies

9/14-9/18

6th Grade

This week, students continued exploring early humans and the development of early societies. We reviewed important vocabulary and concepts from Topic 1, completed review activities, and began preparing for the upcoming assessment. Students also worked on their individual Topic 1 project, applying what they have learned about early human life and development.

7th Grade

This week, students reviewed their learning about the First Americans, Native American cultural regions, Cahokia, and early European exploration. Students received their study guides and participated in review activities to strengthen their understanding of important vocabulary, people, places, and concepts. Our focus was on making connections between the different topics we have studied and preparing students for their upcoming unit test.

Coming up...

Next week, 7th and 8th grade students will take their unit tests on Tuesday, September 22. We will complete a final review beforehand, so students should continue studying their study guides and class materials at home. 6th grade students will continue reviewing Topic 1 and preparing for their Topic 1 assessment.

8th Grade

This week, students continued and completed material from Chapters 1 and 2, focusing on prehistory, early humans, migration, and the development of early communities. Students also received their study guides and reviewed key vocabulary and concepts from both chapters. Review activities helped students prepare to demonstrate their understanding on the upcoming unit test.

Thank You, Ms. Layan
