Discover Your Community's Hidden Gem on Mackenzie

Our Little Free Library has found its perfect new home!

After five years tucked away in a quiet corner, our charming blue two-story Little Free Library is moving to a prime location next to the HOA message board where Ardmore Street meets Mackenzie Circle. This beloved community resource is finally getting the visibility it deserves.

What is a Little Free Library?

Think of it as a neighborhood book exchange that operates 24/7. The concept is beautifully simple: "Take a book, share a book." Our weather-resistant blue unit holds dozens of books for all ages, creating a free community library accessible whenever you need it.

Perfect for Growing Readers

Preschool families will love discovering picture books, early readers, and colorful stories that spark young imaginations. There's something magical about letting little ones choose their own books from this special outdoor library. It encourages reading independence while building excitement about books and stories.

Adult readers can browse novels, mysteries, biographies, and non-fiction titles contributed by neighbors. Whether you're looking for your next beach read or want to explore a new genre, you'll find hidden treasures waiting inside.

Building Community Connections

Beyond books, our Little Free Library strengthens neighborhood bonds. When you contribute a book you've enjoyed, you're sharing a piece of yourself with fellow residents. When you discover someone's donation, you're connecting with their interests and experiences.

How to Participate

Simply walk by anytime! Take books that interest you, and when you're ready, add books from your own collection. No library cards, no due dates, no late fees – just the joy of sharing stories.

Visit our newly relocated Little Free Library at Mackenzie Circle and Ardmore Street. Help us transform this underutilized gem into a thriving community hub where stories and neighbors connect.

Happy reading, neighbors!
