The Sunday Story: Galle-Force

It's about noon, July 21, at the passport office in Colombo's Battaramulla area, Colombo's Battaramulla area, and the queues are serpentine, seeking that one document to leave the country. A few kilometres away, President Wickremesinghe has just been sworn in, a week after predecessor Gotabaya Rajapaksa flew out to Maldiwes to escape a public which took over his official residence, incensed over the country's economic collapse. Zakl, 29, is among those in the line. A plumber, he has spent a valuable Rs 15,000 for a visa, and hopes toog to Kuwait. The plumber, he has spent a valuable Rs 15,000 for a visa, and hopes to go to Kwalt. The queue includes teachers, IT professionals, engineers, anny of them with Families. "I have been coming for two days, but haven't been able to even get into the office," says Plyumi, a 25-year-old teacher, here with her father. But Queues are ubiquitous in Colombo, some lasting days, for almost all essentials. Power cuts are rampart, and malls, cinema halls nearly empty. Schools continue to be closed due to lack of power, tuel for buses. The anger may have ebbed, and government buildings such as the President's house and Prime Minister's office vacated by crowds, but questions remain: how did noe of South Asia's better economies come to this. Flashback to 2009, and how did one of South Asias better economies come to this. Flashback to 2009, and the tend of the war with the concentrate of the second of the once intractable situation made the Rajapaksas — particularly President Mahinda and brother and Defence Secretary Gotabaya — heroes in the eyes of the country's Sinhala majority. Few questions were raised when, in a brazen display of power, the Rajapaksas ensured that after the 2019 elections, the family reigned supreme arrer the 2019 elections, the family reigned supreme — Gotabaya, 73, as President; Mahinda, 76, as PM; another brother Basil, 71, as key strategist; eldest Chamal, 79, as minister; and other Rajapaksas in junior roles.

Rajapaksas in junior roles.
According to leaders in their party Sri Lanka Podujana Peramuna, trouble began soon after, as Gotabaya asserted himself, and found himself ranged against Mahinda and Basil. A former Lt Col, Gotabaya has never been much of a politician unlike the other two, especially the veteran Mahinda. The all-powerful President post came to him as Mahinda was ineigible after two terms, while Basil is a US citizen. China was another two terms, while Basil is a US citizen. China was another bone of contention. Under Mahinda as President, Colombo had grown increasingly close to Beijing, handing over major projects — Colombo Port city project, Hambantota Port, Mattala airport, Lotus Tower to name a few — to Chinese firms. India wasn't the only one discomiffed, as whispers grew of money changing hands, and into the pockets of Mahinda's sons Namal and Yoshitha. While Yoshitha, 34, was Mahinda's Chief of Staff, Namal, 36, was a minister. Rohana Hettiarachchi, Exeuctive Director of an advocacy group for cleaner politics, says, "There was no decision-making process, and they (the Rajapaksas) took decisions without informing the Cabinet." Opinion |Ganeshan wilgnaraja writes: Awaiting Sri Lanka's Narasimha Rao Concerns that the Chinese projects were overvalued were overlooked. Hettiarachchi says the project were a way to earn "commissions" by Rajapaksa family members; some estimate overvaluation of 30%-50%. As President, Gotabaya is believed to have expressed qualms over this Sources said one reason was his view that Mahinda's sons were too entitled. According to Indian officials, as a military person, Gotabaya was also more receptive to Delhi's strategic concerns vis-a-vis China. NSA Ajic Doval is learnt to have developed a rapport with him, and Colombo was one of the few places Doval visited during the pandemic. Change was also wore took entitled. ## A brush with beauty and mortality in Bhutan, the Land of the Thunder Dragon

Peace is overrated. When our life flashes before our eyes in that penultimate moment, will we remember the calm or the torrents? The quiet or the adventure? One such life-flashing memory for me adventure? One such life-flashing memory for me arrived in the Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan, as close as you can get to the last Shangri-la. We were driving from Phoblinka to Bumthang Valley. The dells and hills were ablaze with blinding snow. The freshly snowed-in mountain road was as treacherous as Judas with his klss, making our car skid to the edge of the great fall with the slightest break. Our hearts mountain passes before the nurse of the country is shown of the tale. Druk Yul— the Land of the Thunder Dragon — is a place at the edge of imagination. A song passed down centuries in a timeless rhyme. It is a land of ferceby guarded traditions, no traffic lights, pink-cheeked dzongs against brilliant blue skies and thasha — the ashes of ancestors — arranged by the hillsides and eternalised in clay. A land where every other ravine is associated with an ogress, where 70 per cent of the country is shrouded in primeval forests; where butter
