Rockingham County Sheriff's Office to Participate in NO SHAVE NOVEMBER

Date of Release: Tuesday, October 31, 2017

[Reidsville, NC]- Rockingham County Sheriff Sam Page has once again approved his team at the Rockingham County Sheriff's Office to participate in "No-Shave November". Last year, the Rockingham County Sheriff's Office raised over $1,000 for St Jude's Children's Hospital.

This year, during the month of November, Rockingham County Sheriff's Deputies will be allowed to grow their facial hair outside the regular grooming standards set forth by agency policy.

Not to be left out, female employees wishing to participate will be allowed to wear their hair down, which is also outside the regular grooming standards set forth by agency policy. Deputies and civilian employees participating in "No-Shave November" will each donate $30 ($1 per day), which this year will be given to the National Cancer Society on behalf of our organization.

The goal of "No-Shave November" is to grow awareness for those battling various forms of cancer by growing out our hair, which many cancer patients lose. Participants then donate the money they typically spend on shaving and grooming to educate about cancer prevention, save lives, and aid those fighting the battle.
