

Fully Human Leadership

with OD Pioneer Joyce Wilson-Sanford

DELHAIZE  GROUP

Story Ideas:

-  Being Not Doing: 10 New Era Skills for Leaders
-  5 Subversive Ideas About Change
-  Unconventional CEO Skills
-  Leadership Mantra: "It's Your Task To Ask"
-  Can An Organization Be Empathic?
-  10 Flaws I Saw in CEOs
-  When People Gather: Always A Funny Story
-  Large Groups Can Do Breakthrough Work
-  Diversity and Inclusion Quicksand
-  Execu-Mama Tips

In this rapidly changing environment, companies are racing to discover how to best accommodate and engage their employees, while increasing productivity and profitability. No small task.

With a non-traditional, down to earth approach, coupled with a unique point of view, Joyce Wilson Sanford has many years of experience as a strategic organizational and leadership development expert, specializing in organizational innovations, large culture change, senior level leadership development and organizational transitions of all kinds. Joyce created her own core of leadership practices for the emerging workplace, that she currently uses with her clients.

As a former Executive VP of Strategic Organizational and Leadership Development at the Delhaize Group, a global food retailer, Joyce worked throughout many companies and countries. She is now an Executive Coach, working with OD executives facing challenges of a new kind of workplace and co-hosts the Bob 'n Joyce Podcast. Joyce is passionate about the worldwide need for good, effective leadership and is an excellent thought partner to have in tough situations.

Available for:

- podcasts
- radio
- articles
- media guest
- speaker

Joyce Wilson-Sanford is an entertaining, engaging and sought-after speaker/trainer.

Joyce presents to corporate leadership retreats, HR/OD conferences, NPOs, healthcare executives, small to midsize businesses, and professional groups such as IT, Marketing, Project Management, etc.