

Spiritual, But Not Religious?

It's OK to Pray Anyway

with Joyce Wilson-Sanford

Portland Press Herald

MAINE WOMEN

Story Ideas:

Why The "Nones" (Non Affiliated With Any Religion) Are The Fastest Growing Spiritual Group in America.

Is The New Mantra, Spiritual Not Religious, A Cop-Out?

3 Surprising Ways to Design A Tailor-Made Prayer Practice

Why God Needs A New Name, Religions Need A Garage Sale, and Prayer Needs To Be Rebranded

What If We Are Just Nice? Isn't That Enough?

The 6 Stages of Spiritual Development - How High Up Are You and Do You Have A Nosebleed?

Hey, Do You Pray?

The Happy Atheist - The New Referee Role

Now more than ever, people are desperate to have a rich, spiritual life, but don't necessarily trust religious institutions.

Joyce Wilson-Sanford will inspire and entertain your listeners and readers with thought-provoking ideas, reflections, and reframes from her three-book series, I PRAY ANYWAY: Devotions for the Ambivalent, Reflections for the Spiritually Cranky, and PLAYBook - Guide for Fun Conversations Across Religions.

Available for:

- podcasts
- radio
- articles
- media guest
- speaker

Spiritual author, comedian, and thought leader, Joyce Wilson-Sanford, is an entertaining, engaging and sought-after speaker and media guest.

Joyce runs cross-religion workshops to open up conversation across differences. She is a compelling speaker on the topic of the shift in religion today. As well as her work on new trends in religion, Joyce is a former EVP of a global food retailer and has a business podcast on leadership and change.