 - Each student will need to provide his/her own safety goggles (any style is fine, just be sure they wrap around to cover the eyes from the sides).
 - A binder organized with the Chem Explained worksheets, tests, and quizzes should be brought to each class, along with a pen/pencil.
 - The purchase of a student manual and lab book is encouraged (additional fee of $74), but each lesson's homework and labs may also be printed off at home. It is your preference. Students will need to bring their homework and lab sheets to class.
 - Note: the Chemistry class requires the purchase of the Chem Explained online course, for which each student will receive a $75 discount (provided by Chem Explained--the discounted fee for the course is $270 for the year and includes everything needed for the course). The website is chemexplained.com and provides all of Chapter 1 as a free trial, has a FAQ tab, and a lot of other information. Susan tutored this class in the past with a small group of students who found it to be highly engaging and fun. This course is suitable for all levels of learning and not for just those who are college-bound. It challenges students with critical thinking skills and engages them in group discussion rooted in Catholicism. Please do not register for Chem Explained until you register for the class through piadomustylor.org/education. Susan will then send participants information on how to register for Chem Explained and receive the discount. In-class time will be spent on labs, discussing videos and homework/note pages. As always, parents are the first educators of their children. Susan will serve as a tutor, meaning she will guide students through the labs, address homework and test questions, and assist students with comprehension of the material. Please contact Susan with any questions at susanrobinson83@protonmail.com.

Collection Policy

To provide fairness to tutors, we ask for advanced notice of any student who needs to drop out of a class. Monthly fees need to be received by each tutor by the 5th of the month. No refunds will be given unless there are extenuating circumstances. A two-week grace period at the beginning of each semester will be provided as a time to "try out" a class, and refunds may be given if it is determined the class is not a good fit.
