

UNCATEGORIZED

Diary Of A Spoonie #2: Chronic Pain + Fatigue = Boredom

December 28, 2016 saneinchronicpain

I would like to tell you all that I have done something super exciting and cool today, but that would be a big fat lie. December is always an especially painful month for me, and this one has been no exception. I did, however, see my best friend today for our Christmas gift exchange. I am so grateful for that girl. After all that has happened she has always been there for me, always been right by my side. I wish I had the energy to actually hang out with her, but thirty minutes of talking all peppy like and I needed a nap. I spent the rest of the day watching Gilmore Girls and an insane amount of Manwich and Charmin commercials while curled up on the couch. So very boring. But geez am I feeling old right now, it is 7:30 and I am actually considering turning in. Scratch that - I am going to get in bed. Goodnight Y'all.

