1. Preface & Acknowledgments

The originator of Caribou Lodge was William Frederick (Bill) Tingey.

From the material/accounts I have been able to locate, the broad early chronology is:

- In 1910 Bill built a sawmill on the property
- In 1914 Bill's purchase of the property was registered
- In 1918 Bill established a hunting/fishing Lodge on the property
- In the late 1920s Bill established the family Lodge

The family Lodge continues to run until the present day in 2024, has been family run and has and continues to host multiple generations of families for summer vacations.

This book has been prepared to document the Lodge building/grounds/owner history solely for the enjoyment of those interested and is not intended to be used for any commercial sale.

The book is produced with the permission of the Middleton family, current (2024) owners of Caribou Lodge.

Credits for accounts of the Lodge history (the detail is in section 7 including the detailed accounts/relevant excerpts):

Mr. D.R. Boyes
Van Koughnet.
Dear Sir.
I arrived home
O.K. yesterday and am writing to see if you would ask Mr. Wm. Tingley ^{if he} has any deer skins to spare as I would like to get one or two.
I am enclosing picture I promised.
Kindly answer as soon as possible and let me know about the skins. Thanking you
I remain
Yours Truly,
Chief Jim Bigwin

The tie in to Caribou Lodge of this picture of and letter from Chief Jim Bigwin, is that he sent the letter to Dougald Boyes, asking that Bill Tingley be asked if he had any deer skins. At the date of the letter the hunting Lodge was in operation.

CARIBOU LODGE

VANKOUGHNET P.O.

Muskoka, Ontario

Telephone 645-4841

April 20th, 1969

Dear Friends:

This is to inform you that Caribou Lodge on Wood Lake, Muskoka has been sold to Mr. Kenneth Slack, who will take possession as of May 1st, 1969.

As you know we have owned and operated Caribou Lodge for the past 24 seasons. We shall miss it, but are happy that it will be in such good hands. Mr. and Mrs. Slack are both formerly Air Canada employees, who are well known for serving the public needs, and are coming to Caribou as newlyweds.

To those to whom this letter is being sent we say a sincere "Thank You" for all the different ways in which you have helped us. There are many—guests, salesmen, service, newspaper and bank people, neighbors, pre-season helpers and many others—friends all. How fortunate we have been! Please be as good to the Slacks as you have been to us.

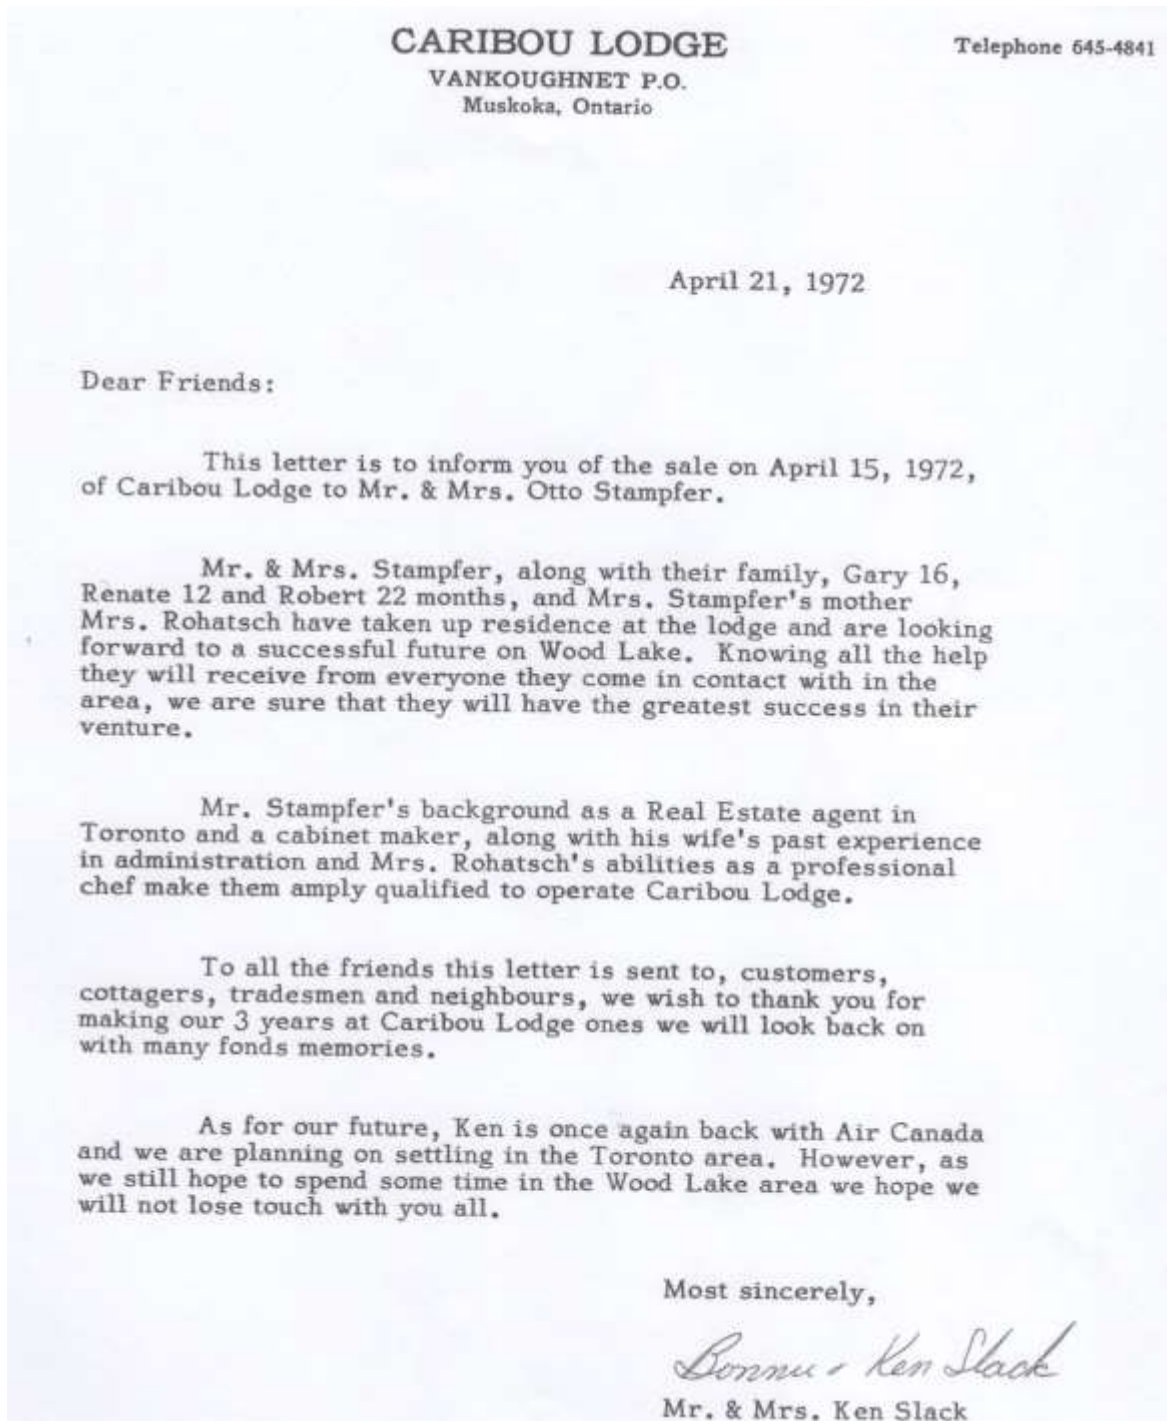

As for us, we are building a new home in the Wood Lake district, Jack planning on maintaining the Marina service and repairs on Wood Lake.

Most sincerely,

Laura & Jack

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neville

Dear friends,

As every year around this time we are sending out greetings to all our guests with a reminder to confirm your tentative booking for the upcoming summer season. We hope you all had a good winter so far and we look forward to an early spring.

As most of you know we had the Lodge up for sale since last summer. There were several offers however none materialized into a deal.

This weekend we finished negotiating a new offer with the last initials the deal was made and the Lodge is now sold to Mr. Middleton and his family.

Mr. Middleton is operating a successful business in Goderich Ontario however the love for Muskoka brought him back to Wood Lake where he spent some summers of his younger years at his families cottage. His father was one of the early cottage owners on the lake.

The new owners intend to operate the Lodge as we did for many years and they are looking forward to meet you all this summer.

Theresa, Robert and I would like to take this opportunity to thank you all for your support and for being our friends over so many years. "THANK YOU VERY MUCH" and we do hope that you will continue to spend some more happy days at the Lodge.

To confirm your tentative booking for the coming season please complete the back portion of the brochure and return the same to us with deposit on or before March 15th. Thank you. Please make cheque or money order payable to Caribou Lodge.

We hope that you all will have a fulfilled and pleasant holiday as always at the Lodge on lovely Wood Lake.

Sincerely,

Otto and Theresa Stampfer

4a. Cottages & Beach

The layout on this page is annotated from a 1980s brochure

The six cottages starting east of Holiday House, were originally named #7 through #12. This is thought to be because #1 through #4 were cottages west of the marina that were sold off in the late 1960s, then #5 and #6 were the cottages near the store, and one of the apartments in the main Lodge. The cottages were renamed to #1 - #6 in the late 1960s, then to the Loon, Buckhorn, Beaver, Wolf, Moose and Bear in 2004.

The Birch cottage was originally the "cottage on the point", then #7 for a period of time, and finally named the Birch in 1982.

The Cedar and Maple have always had the same/original names.

4b. Cottages chronology

- 1920s – 1930s The “cottage on the point” (later named #7, then the Birch), and the six cottages south of the road and starting east of Holiday House (previously rec hall) were built. These dates are a guess and are based on:
 - Activity by Bill Tingey e.g. building store (1932) and launching promotion (1935) (ref. 7f)
 - All pictures going back to the 1930s, show the cottages
 - Reference from Graydon Boyes in narratives section (7f) that his father Claude built a number of the cottages
- 1920s – 1930s (through late 1960s) Four cottages originally to the west of the property and two cottages to the east of the property, were part of Caribou Lodge
- 1920s – 1930s (through late 1960s) The six cottages starting to the east of Holiday House (earlier was rec hall) were labeled as #7-#12
- 1940s (early) Porches put on six cottages starting to the east of Holiday House. Per pictures from the 1930s, these cottages did not originally have porches
- 1946 There was water to the small cottages, but no hydro (ref. 7e)
- 1950 (approximately) Bathrooms were added to the cottages, so outhouses were no longer used
- 1960s (late) six cottages to the south of the road starting immediately east of Holiday House (earlier rec hall) were renumbered #1-#6
- 1970s – 1980s Side extensions added to Wolf/#4, Moose/#5 (1960s pictures show both cottages without additions)
- 1982 Maple and Cedar cottages built
- 1982 (approximately) The Birch was named, previously it was #7 and the “cottage on the point”
- 2000s (early) In the cottage area, the pump house near the Birch, and water tower behind the Wolf/#4/#10 were removed as the source for water for the cottages and replaced with well water as the source
- 2004 Cottages #1 - #6 given names (Loon, Buckhorn, Beaver, Wolf, Moose and Bear)
- 2005 Large addition and deck put on Loon/#1
- 2005 Deck added to Birch
- 2011 “Sitting” dock built in water in front of Maple and Cedar
- 2013 Bear/#6 and Buckhorn/#2 decks added
- 2014 Cedar & Maple cottage decks added
- 2015 Beaver/#3, Wolf/#4, Moose/#5, decks added
- 2016-2020 Beaver/#3, Wolf/#4, Moose/#5 bathrooms remodeled
- 2021 Bear/#6 bathroom remodeled

7. Narratives/traditions

a. At <https://thegreatcanadianwilderness.com/business-listings/caribou-Lodge/>:

Since 1910, guests have felt the gentle lure to experience new adventures in the magnificent wilderness surroundings of Caribou Lodge on scenic Wood Lake in Muskoka. The Caribou Lodge property was first established as a sawmill and as the years went by, it gradually went from lumbering to the tourist industry. By 1930, Caribou Lodge had grown from a hunting and fishing camp to a family Lodge with guests returning year after year

b. Life at Wood Lake – 45 Years

By Doctors Alberta and William Cross – 1958

At that time (summer of 1913) Bill Tingey had a log house near the well at Caribou Lodge and a saw-mill about where the boat storage house stands. The log house referred to was originally owned by Jim O'Hara. He sold it to Mr. Landon, the father of Mrs. Harry Rice.

By St. David's W.M.S & St. Stephen's A.C.W.

The original owner of Caribou Lodge was William F. Tingey from Ryde Township who came to Oakley to work in the lumber business. He met and married Isobel Boyes, the boss' daughter.

Eventually he bought the Wood Lake property, now known as Caribou Lodge, and in 1910 built a sawmill there. His wife cooked for the men who worked for him. At that time, they lived in a log cabin built by an original settler, an Englishman named Mr. O'Hara.

Like all lumbermen in the area, William moved around a lot, cutting logs and driving them to the mill on Wood Lake. The bark was peeled from the logs and drawn by horses to the tannery in Bracebridge. Then the logs were sawn into lumber at the lake.

Prior to this he had been caretaker at Longford Reserve for awhile, where he worked for some American tourists.

As the years went by, he gradually went from lumbering to the tourist industry. His first wife died in 1925, leaving him with three children, Harold, Clifford, and Ellen. Then in 1930 he married the second time to Edith (Robson) Dixon, who had eight children of her own. Together, with the help of their children and much hired help, they went from a hunting and fishing camp to a family lodge, with people returning year after year.

In 1932 they built a store, dining room, laundry house, ice house and generator building. In 1945 they sold to Laura and Jack Neville and Elsie and George Blenkin, and moved to Bracebridge. Subsequently, the Lodge was sold in 1969 to Bonnie and Ken Slack, then in 1972 to the present owners, Theresa and Otto Stampher.

In 1879, property owners abutting Wood Lake were J.R. Silliman and Henry O'Hara on the southwest, and Jas. Wells on the Northwest

William Landon purchased the O'Hara property to be near Wood Lake for logging, but he died of typhoid. William F. Tingey was the next owner, and his legacy was to be Caribou Lodge.

William F. Tingey of Caribou Lodge became a director of the newly formed Muskoka Tourist Development Association in 1935 and took Wood Lake beyond Ontario to the United States. In a major promotion, more than 5,400,000 newspapers circulated information and maps provided by the Association in American cities surrounding the Great Lakes to encourage visitors to come to Muskoka tourist resorts. The Association presented Muskoka in all its beauty from east to west and the following year, Caribou Lodge reported that his resort was filled all summer, through to October. The successful result of this advertising was the beginning of the U.S. migration to Wood Lake.

Laura (Neville) recalled that when they bought the Lodge, there was water to the small cottages, but no hydro. The guests cooked on pot-bellied stoves and used concrete boxes dug into the ground to keep the food cool. When they put electricity into the cottages, small electric stoves were installed.

P.11 references

There is a big rock between Dr. Day's boathouse and Caribou Lodge which Mr. O'Hara used as a back-wall in building his first cabin. A cavity in the rock served as a fireplace for cooking. The floor was of earth. Their first three children were born and raised there. Later the Bell-Ewart Lumberman, from the depot that was located between Ernie Conway's house and the lake, came down on Sundays and built the log cabin for Mr. O'Hara. Will Tingey bought it in 1910 and was occupying it when we first came up.

During the summer of 1950, the seeds of the Wood Lake Cottagers' Association were sown.

Page 17-18 references

On the site of today's Caribou Lodge, there stood at the time a log cottage occupied by the late William F. (Bill) Tingey, who operated a sawmill nearby.

He (Bill) began to build the original Caribou Lodge about 1928 and by 1940 had developed a flourishing summer Lodge business.

Bill (Tingey) and Isabel Boyes married Dec. 20/1900. Isabel passed away in 1925.

In 1918, he (Bill) became the originator and proprietor of Caribou Lodge, a small camp where hunters could stay while they took part in seasonal hunting.

In 1930, Bill married for the second time. His second wife was the former Edith Robinson.

They went from a hunting and fishing camp to a family Lodge with people returning year after year. In 1932 they built a store, dining room, laundry house, ice house and generator building. The Tingey family sold Caribou Lodge to Jack and Laura Neville and George and Elsie Blenkin and then moved permanently into Bracebridge.

The sawmill on Wood Lake was replaced with a hunting and fishing Lodge and eventually turned into an attractive and viable summer resort which he (Bill) named Caribou Lodge. This Lodge on Wood Lake is still operating today.

g. Graydon Boyes recollections Feb. 2024, next two pages

For references for the attached material, Graydon's great grandfather was Thomas Boyes. Thomas had eleven children, and one of Thomas' daughters was Isabel, who married Bill Tingey, the originator of Caribou Lodge. That makes Graydon the great nephew of Bill and Isabel. One of Isabel's brothers was Dougald, who was Graydon's grandfather. One of Dougald's sons was Claude, who is Graydon's father.

Bill Tingey years

When the saw mill was dismantled, Graydon remembers going with his Father and seeing large wooden rollers on site (where the boat launching area is now). These rollers were used at the mill to roll the lumber (or slabs) from the mill works in the early 1940's.

A fire burned through the area east of and relatively close to Caribou Lodge in the early 1910s (era 1913, Longford and Oakley). It burned down a number of houses, Toll family house burned down but the Boyes homestead was spared because of the persistence of Thomas, Graydon's great grandfather (and the help of a worker from Longford).

After the fire, permission was given to cut down the trees between Oakley and Longford lines thus straightening the road and making the roadway more accessible.

The logs were taken to Tingey's mill at Caribou and sawed into lumber. This lumber was used to rebuild some of the houses burned in the fire.

Many people fled the fire – some had wagons loaded with possessions – ending up at Caribou landing where Wood Lake offered a sense of protection from the fire.

This is recorded in a booklet (ref. 7b) written by Drs. William and Alberta Cross who had property on the lake. They eventually built a cottage off Fox Point Road.

In 1910s and 1920s, Bill Tingey and Isabel (Boyes) Tingey built Caribou into a hunting and fishing resort which eventually became Caribou Lodge – a cottage resort. Isabel was known as (Aunt) Bella. She worked at cooking excellent meals while Bill was responsible for guiding hunting and fishing groups.

Isabel died at 52 years of age in 1925. Bill married Edith Dixon (a widow who had several children). The resort was increased with buildings added and meals were then served at the main building. Edith was the main cook. Graydon knows his father Claude (and a man named Russel) worked at building many of the cottages on site.

Neville and Blenkin years

Jack and Laura Neville, George and Elsie Blenkin bought the property. Laura and Elsie were sisters. The Boyes family had a close association with the Neville and Blenkin families.

Jack had been an airplane mechanic during WWII – servicing Mosquito bombers which had Rolls Royce engines. Jack was foreman of a four man team.

Jack eventually owned his own small plane and took local kids on rides – naturally this was an amazing treat.

In these years, the Neville and Blenkin families:

- continued to serve meals to the resort guests and cottagers on the lake
- established the Marina
- hosted the Regatta which was held each summer with many events (though the Regatta was not open to general public, the Councillors of Oakley and families were invited to attend)

Since George and Jack had both played recreational hockey, they were interested in community endeavours in outdoor sports. They would clear off the ice – (large area) on the lake to provide a skating rink for the community and thickened the ice also for refrigeration use.

Wood Lake had been used for ice recovery for years when electrical refrigeration was unavailable.

Jack and George purchased a Mercury station wagon to provide transportation to Bracebridge for high school students (previously students would have had to board in town to attend school). Later a small bus was purchased and they took turns driving to town.

Jack also drove the township snow plow, a second person had to drive along (usually George) who could raise or lower the “wing” part of the truck.

Events held at Caribou included:

1. Square dances – held in constructed club house – open only to Caribou clients, cottagers and a few invited guests. George “called” the squares and Graydon would spell him off. Neil Boyes would play the fiddle (violin), Lawrence Flaherty the Hawaiian guitar, Malcolm Boyes – guitar. Graydon would chord on piano at times. Trevor Boyes – played fiddle and banjo – mandolin.
2. Song services were also held at the clubhouse on Sunday evenings – open to Caribou, cottagers, and St. David’s and St. Stephen’s churches. The offering collected that evening was donated to St. David’s. Often at St. David’s Church, summer student or retired ministers helped at song services. NOTE: These Song services dated earlier – when Bill Tingey owned the Lodge, back to 1930’s.

Jim Ritchie was a summer student from Knox College who was the one who initiated the hymn singing. He came back for another summer, serving St. David’s church. Instead of having hymn sings at individual homes, Bill Tingey was approached for holding them at Caribou – allowing for more space. That request was granted. The Neville and Blenkin families continued the evening events in the summer. Graydon remembers how George loved to sing the hymns and often it was a daily occurrence on the school bus when George was driving to take the Boyes kids on the longer route home, just to prolong the singing.

3. Jack ran the marina.

4. Swimming lessons for community children were held in the summer in later years through Bracebridge recreational services, until the early 1970s.

End of Graydon Boyes recollections

h. Some cottager traditions:

- i. Wednesday night bingo in one of the rec halls, cottagers around the lake would participate up until the 2010s. In more recent years using the equipment provided by the Lodge, Bingo has been done by groups of families during their stays
- ii. Visiting the nearby garbage dump to see bears
- iii. Children climbing on the big rock near the Wolf/#4/#10
- iv. Taking pictures on the big rock near the Wolf/#4/#10
