Note from the President

I'm very grateful that Friendship Force Knoxville participated in an Open World visit by an Uzbekistan judicial delegation. The experience expanded my understanding of this Central Asian country while creating life-long memories and friendships. The delegation learned much about the Rule of Law as they met judges, attorneys, and law professors. They also experienced life here in East Tennessee with a variety of cultural activities. (See the pictures on page 4 of this newsletter and on the FFK Facebook page.) The eight days went by very quickly. By the time we bid goodbye at McGhee Tyson airport, I felt sad to see our new friends leave.

During the Open World visit, four of our members departed for a journey to Australia: Ambassador Coordinator Leslie Badaines, Ellen and Dave Greenwood, and Joanne Hayden. From their posts on the FFK Facebook page, it looks like they are having a great time.

Here's what we can look forward to for the remainder of 2022:

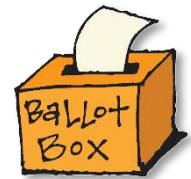

- Nov. 22—Annual meeting to vote on our 2023 Slate of Officers. We need a quorum so please Zoom in no matter where you happen to be!
- Nov. 29—Trip to Abingdon, Virginia, to watch the play, “Over the River and Through the Woods” at the Smith Theatre.
- December—Details to be announced—Holiday Party.

Leaders from Uzbekistan Examine Rule of Law With FFK

Uzbekistan has become not just a name on a map, but a name which triggers the charm, intelligence and curiosity demonstrated by the 5 judicial delegates and the facilitator/interpreter from Tashkent, Uzbekistan! Friendship Force Knoxville and U.S. District Court Judges Thomas Varlan and Katherine Crytzer of the Eastern District of Tennessee jointly hosted the eight-day Open World program regarding best practices in judicial procedures, comparing systems in Uzbekistan with those in the United States. The Congressional Office for International Leadership, an agency of the U.S. Congress, funded and coordinated the program.

After their arrival on Friday, October 7, the delegates settled in with their individual hosts and had a small taste of local culture. The full program began on Saturday with a day in the Smokies, meeting with officials from the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, U. S Attorney’s Office and the U. S. District Court regarding legal issues arising in the in the Park, followed by a picnic lunch and a hike on the Little River Trail. On Sunday, Friendship Force showed the delegation highlights of Knoxville with a river cruise, trip to the Sunsphere, and a visit to the Knoxville Museum of Art.

On Monday, the delegation began a full week of visiting state and federal courts, observing court proceedings, and meeting with various state and federal judges. They met with Knox County and federal prosecutors, public defenders and defense counsel and other attorneys, enforcement representatives and law professors. The delegates also attended classes at the University of Tennessee College of Law and the Lincoln Memorial University College of Law. Mayor Indya Kincannon bestowed honorary city citizenship on each member of the delegation when they met with her. Congressman Tim Burchett, Representative for the 2nd Congressional District in Tennessee, welcomed them and shared his background and how he became active in politics. During all of these meetings, the delegates were assisted by an interpreter who provided simultaneous translation.

Two evening events were true highlights. The first was the informal dinner of dishes provided by Friendship Force members, which included a presentation by the delegation on the history and culture of Uzbekistan and a demonstration of Uzbek dancing. Then on the final night, the Uzbek delegation cooked a traditional Uzbek dinner for all their hosts and Judge Varlan at the home of Marsha and Art Mitchell.

Lead coordinator Betsy Tonkin shared organizational duties with Marsha Mitchell and Courtney Shea. Host families: Ron and Jean Mayer, Jayne Raparelli and Mike McDonough, Rusha and Bert Sams, Marsha and Art Mitchell, Courtney Shea, and Betsy Tonkin. During the stay several FFK members provided small group dinners for delegates and their hosts: Gail Tyson, Jean & Ron Mayer and Bruce & Janis Robinson. Truly a wonderful experience for all who participated!
