Pentecost Sunday

Introduction to the Mass

Today we gather joyfully celebrate that we are people who live by the Spirit of God who lives within us. The same Spirit that was poured out on the first disciples at Pentecost is poured out on us today as we join in this great gift of the Eucharist and open ourselves to the healing gift of God's love.

First Reading Acts 2:1-11

The description of the outpouring of the Spirit at Pentecost reminds us that the Good News of God's faithful love is a proclamation to be shared with the whole world and that all who are disciples are called to participate in that mission.

Second Reading Rom 8:8-17

Paul highlights the fact that life as Christian is a life in the Spirit. We live now as people made alive by the Spirit of God who teaches us to call God Abba, Father.

Gospel Jn 14: 14:15-16,23-26

The Spirit sent by the Father will be our advocate and teacher who reminds us of all that Jesus said. Through the Spirit God will make his home in us.

A Thought for every day – St. Peter Julian Eymard

5th – The sovereign reason for the Eucharist, is the love of Jesus Christ for his Church. He died to generate divine life for this second Eve, this spouse of his heart. She came out beautiful and pure from the open side for the second Adam who slept on the cross.

6th – The Eucharist is the greatest gift of the love of Jesus Christ.

7th – Jesus Christ. It is the synopsis of all the special gifts of his life. He left us a memorial of his marvels. It is more than a gift. It is the donor who gives himself...The king with his kingdom.

8th – Thank our Lord Jesus Christ for all the graces with which he has filled us to this day, and especially that of receiving his divine word.

9th – I took the resolution to read the work of God with a very deep respect and to pronounce with affection the liturgical prayers of the Holy Church, inspired as they are by the Holy Spirit; it is the prayer of the Holy Spirit offered by his spouse

10th – As God has enriched us with so many gifts, we must thank him. The Eucharist is thanksgiving par excellence.

11th - Communion – The Eucharist is a memorial of the resurrected life of Jesus since it is not his body subject to death that we receive in Holy Communion, but his glorified and resurrected body, by which he communicates to us in the principle of our glorious resurrection.
