

Background:

The building was originally constructed in 1882 and was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1972. Throughout the years, the building has served as the fire station, jail and city officials' offices. In 2007, City Hall was moved from the building due to safety concerns.

Redevelopment:

The building was restored and now serves as the Marshall's Office. The goal of local law enforcement is to provide excellent service to the citizens of Tombstone through active patrols and establishing good public relations through community involvement.
