Editor's Corner Desk

Dr. Elicia A. Brannon-Little

In the tradition of making a New Year's resolution, I have decided to avoid the usual clichés of fitness, finances, and self-improvement and instead focus on becoming more disciplined, because discipline is the foundation that makes all other goals possible. Being disciplined means choosing what matters most over what feels easiest. It means showing up when motivation fades, managing time and resources wisely, and staying committed to what I have been called to do. With greater discipline, healthier habits form, financial goals become achievable, and personal growth follows naturally, not by chance, but by consistent, intentional effort.

Join me in making this year one of purpose, consistency, and meaningful progress, where small, disciplined choices lead to lasting change.

Happy New Year!

Updating Outdated Covenants

All Copperfield residents will receive a ballot to vote on the proposed covenant amendments. This marks Phase One of our update process, during which the Board has carefully reviewed outdated sections and proposed revisions designed to better serve and protect our community.

These updates modernize the covenants, clarify expectations, and strengthen the overall quality and value of our neighborhood. You will receive your ballot along with your 2026 HOA dues statement, making it easy to review the proposed amendments and submit your vote at the same time.

We encourage every homeowner to participate by reviewing the proposed amendments and casting a YES vote in support of these important improvements.
