Advantages of using a Realtor to Lease your Property

Knowledgeable and Experienced

Great real estate agents consistently research market and industry trends of the communities in which they provide services. Having a qualified professional in your corner will not only allow you to get the best possible price for your unit, but they will also screen potential candidates to ensure they are presenting you with the top selection of qualified prospective applicants.

Advertising and Promotion

You'll enjoy peace of mind as you leave the leg work to someone else. Your real estate agent will be responsible for promoting your listing through various channels such as social media, real estate websites and print media. They will ensure maximum exposure while maintaining the integrity of your property.

As an added bonus, I will have a qualified professional evaluate your space and offer suggestions for staging prior to listing your property!

Network of Qualified Prospective Tenants

Low vacancy rates in the Greater Toronto Area are prompting more tenants to seek realtors to find desirable units. Sales representatives have the ability to network not only within their personal database but can collaborate with other agents within their network to match suitable applicants with the right landlords.
