New Weaving Classes at Ink People

Linda Hartshorn and Nancy Kennedy are pleased to announce that weaving classes can resume at the Ink People weaving studio. Covid-19 protocol will be followed. There will be three students and one instructor in the studio at a time. Wearing masks and social distancing will be required. Disinfectant wipes will be available to clean surfaces as needed. Each person will be asked to bring hand sanitizer.

Each instructor can take up to three students. Looms will be assigned to conform to socially distanced spacing.

The class format will be independent projects. Beginning students are welcome. Each student will be entitled to three hours of instruction per week for eight weeks. Some independent studio time will be necessary and can be arranged with the instructor so that there are no more than three students there at a time. The Ink People limits how many people can be in the building at a time during their open hours.

Here is my latest weaving: shadow weave, "escalator". This little section is without errors. Handspun two ply cotton, warp and weft.
Janet F.

Sofa pillow cover. The warp is cotton rug warp; the weft is Linnay (50% linen, 50% rayon).
Donna W.

Ready to take my rag rug off the loom, I'm in love with this pattern ♥ Cindy R.

Photo of a recent rug: This rug was influenced by Bauhaus artist, Laszlo Moholy-Nagy. I wove it for a photographer's studio. He wanted dark colors that wouldn't reflect light. Most of the time he will have the dark side face up. Unfortunately, my dining room table cast a shadow, so the photos aren't so good.
Nancy K.

Finished this vest in July as a test knit. It's called Tasca and has a unique construction -- and pockets!!
