

THE CHEF

Giacomo Napolitano

Born in Palermo and having lived here all my life, my story, who I am, the places I've visited, the people who have crossed my path – I turn all of this into my cooking every day.

Those small traces of the world from what was once a simple passion have now transformed into a delightful and passionate job.

I've had the honor and privilege of working in high-end hospitality catering. Here, I gained a lot of experience, but I also realized that customer attention and the choice of ingredients were not always given top priority.

With my personal project, Risthome, I seek to encapsulate all my experience, the careful selection of ingredients, and the professionalism of culinary art to best satisfy my clients.

For many years, I have been an entrepreneur, and I have never abandoned what, for me, was home and love: food.

"Isn't this, a table full of friends and loved ones, our daily Risthome?"
