

Developing a Sound Case Theory for Prosecution

COURSE INFORMATION:

Lawyers are increasingly choosing to present their clients cases in the Magistrates Court. The ability to effectively prepare and conduct a client's case is beneficial in maintaining positive client care but also reducing costs associated with the use of external litigators.

This one day course has been designed to enhance and build the confidence of lawyers involved in undertaking litigation.

COURSE DURATION:

In this one-day course, our expert trainer who is an experienced solicitor and senior prosecutor, will guide attendees through the process of preparing and conducting effective cases. This will include techniques and best practice to achieve positive outcomes

AUDIENCE

This course has been designed for lawyers, solicitors, legal executives and trainees who may be involved in the preparation or conduct of litigation matters in the Magistrates Court.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Understand how to undertake effective trial preparation and conduct effective case management hearings.
- How to approach examination-in-chief, cross-examination and re-examination providing techniques and tips from our expert.
- Know how to draft and present effective legal arguments.
- The do and don't of preparing and undertaking quality opening and closing speeches.
How to avoid Wasted Costs Orders