

Cecil, a native of Mississippi, has been working on the stage for nearly his entire life. The story sounds like a made-for-the-big screen motivational tell. Back when Cecil was just six years old and living in Mississippi, he sent in a dollar to a company advertising magic tricks on the back of a comic book. By the time he had moved to Idaho ten years later, his skill had grown well beyond his tender years.

"Magic to me means escaping from reality and making the Impossible ~ Possible!," explained Cecil. "I think magic is truly amazing in that you can entertain a crowd and leaving them wondering how you did it". Thirty years ago, he started Cecil's Magic so he could reach more people. Since then, Cecil has appeared at numerous fairs and festivals throughout the region, as well as parties and civic events. The key to Cecil's popularity is his ability to truly connect with his audience. At your next special gathering, invite your friends to witness the magic and illusions of Cecil Lewis, and learn why it has been said, "he creates the magic with Southern hospitality in a Northern Way".