Flag of Myanmar Myanmar, officially the Republic of the Union of Myanmar, also known as Burma (the official name until 1989), is a country in Southeast Asia. It is the largest country by area in Mainland Southeast Asia, and has a population of about 54 million as of 2017. It is bordered by Bangladesh and India to its northwest, China to its northeast, Laos and Thailand to its east and southeast, and the Andaman Sea and the Bay of Bengal to its south and southwest. The country's capital city is Naypyidaw, and its largest city is Yangon (Rangoon). Early civilisations in the area included the Tibeto-Burman-speaking Pyu city-states in Upper Myanmar and the Mon kingdoms in Lower Myanmar. In the 9th century, the Bamar people entered the upper Irrawaddy valley, and following the establishment of the Pagan Kingdom in the 1050s, the Burmese language, culture, and Theravada Buddhism slowly became dominant in the country. The Pagan Kingdom fell to Mongol invasions, and several warring states emerged. In the 16th century, reunified by the Taungoo dynasty, the country became the largest empire in the history of Southeast Asia for a short period. As all the government offices had to move to Naypyidaw, all the related business and people has to follow them to Naypyidaw to do their business used to do in Yangon - now the business capital of Myanmar. DPS helped Naypyidaw Development Committee with Bilingual Map of Naypyitaw in 2006. The digital version of Naypyidaw Map was created in Mapinfo based on the AutoCad version from City Planners. DPS staff had to move to Naypyidaw and traveled the barren roads - some ended abruptly into high ditch - clad with GPS and cameras. It took DPS 3 months and a budget of 50,000$ to produce GIS map of Naypyidaw (4422 entries of roads, 225 entries of Points of Interests, 184 Village Tracts) together with printed street directory clearly showing the locations of each Government Ministry. It was an instant hit and the books sold out within a week. The digital version of Naypyidaw is kept updated available from DPS.
