Jason Kvols

Development Manager - Colorado Springs Mayberry, Inc.

Jason Kvols grew up in a family of entrepreneurs. He spent his childhood working for his dad Kevin, learning the manufacturing trade. After graduating high school, Jason spent 4 years pursuing a Mechanical Engineering Degree from Colorado State University, but eventually stopped ignoring the forces of his entrepreneurial spirit, changed programs and completed a degree in Business Management at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs.

In 2010 while completing his Business Management degree, Jason began working at VPE Global/SnapCrate. Jason began on the production floor and worked his way up through the company learning every aspect of the business. By 2013, Jason was promoted to Production and Operations Manager.

In 2017, Jason was hired as the Head of Business Development for Hammers Construction Inc. Hammers Construction is the largest design build General Contractor in Colorado Springs. In 2017, when Jason was hired, Hammers net sales were $15,000,000. By 2020 Jason had helped to increase sales to over $52,000,000 with a $145 Million dollar pipeline. While at Hammers, Jason's desire to bring manufacturing efficiencies to construction and real estate started to grow. God began to open a door that Jason could not ignore, and toward the end of 2020 when the management team from Mayberry met Jason, it was a perfect match.
