Stars of Wonder

As we get ready for the birth of Jesus Christ, the Light of the World, we can't help but find ourselves aware of the long nights of darkness this time of year. Vincent Van Gogh was familiar with darkness. His signature bright and bold strokes were painted on a personal canvas of struggle and despair.

After reading Carol Berry's book, Vincent Van Gogh: His Spiritual Vision in Life and Art, I discovered that he was the son of a pastor and a person of deep Christian faith. In addition to his art, Vincent left behind hundreds of letters of correspondence with his close brother, Theo, offering a rich window into the life and faith of the artist. Vincent had hoped to become a pastor, but struggled in his studies. Moving then to the missionary field, he was dropped by the mission board in the first year because they thought he was identifying too closely with the miners he was serving. He became agonized by the dissonance between the propriety of the church culture and his deep sense of God's love for all. Despite his setbacks, his faith compelled him forward:

I tell you that I think it absolutely necessary to believe in God in order to be able to love... a God who is alive, who with irresistible force urges us toward "aimer encore" (loving still).

~ letter from Etten, November 23, 1881

Art became the way for Vincent to love - and serve - the world that God loved. He was drawn to the poor and marginalized, spending hours observing their reality and telling their story through images. He also paid close attention to nature - from a wheat field to a knotted tree stump to glorious starry nights - testifying that earth was filled with the glory of God. He would get lost in his studies - often risking his own health - to look deeply into the heart of things.

I was blessed to behold 74 of Van Gogh's original works at the D.I.A.'s Van Gogh in America exhibit on a trip with the Northbrook Adult Education Committee. While mentioned only briefly in the curator's notes, Van Gogh's intensity of faith reverberated through his work. After paying such close and loving attention to his - and God's - subjects, he created works of honesty, beauty, wonder and mystery.

During this season of Advent, I encourage you to catch the exhibit at the D.I.A. if you can. If you can't make it, that's ok. Just take some time to look, really look outside your window - or your neighbor - like Vincent did. And, wonder at how God's glory is being revealed. You might just be surprised at what you find when you look with enough love.

If one feels the need of something great, something infinite, something where one feels one can see God, one need not go far to find it. I think I saw something deeper, more eternal than the ocean, expressed in the eyes of a little baby when it awoke in the morning.

~ The Hague, December 10, 1882

12/4 - Second Sunday of Advent Worship at 10am - *Get Ready

Witness the Christmas story in a new way as told by the young people of Northbrook during our Sunday morning worship service.

Are you struggling this holiday season? Find healing and hope through a time of quiet contemplation and moving music. On the longest night, let's hold onto the light.

12/24 - Christmas Eve Service at 5pm

In Jesus Christ, the light has come into the world and the darkness has not overcome it. Embrace the mystery of this holy night with rich music, beautiful flowers, and candlelight.

12/25 - Christmas Brunch & Carols at 10am

Gather in Fellowship Hall for a Christmas brunch and carols. *There's no charge for the meal, but please reserve your spot by contacting the church office by December 18.

Northbrook Book Club—Monday, December 5 at 7 p.m. via In-Person or Zoom

Everybody is welcome to attend the Northbrook Book Club discussion of The Yellow House by Sarah M. Broom on Monday, December 5 at 7pm. Please let N. Best if you would like a Zoom invitation. The Yellow House is a memoir and has been called a book of great ambition. It tells a hundred years of Sarah's family and their relationship to a home in a neglected area of one of America's most mythologized cities-New Orleans. This is the story of a mother's struggle against a house's entropy, and that of a prodigal daughter who left home only to reckon with the pull that home exerts, even after the Yellow House was wiped off the map from Hurricane Katrina.

Please mark your calendars with these upcoming book club dates:

- ◆ January 23, 2023: Have You Seen Luis Velez? by Catherine Ryan Hyde, fiction, 320 pages (Nancy hosts)

Finance Matters

Another Fall Stewardship campaign is now behind us, and we wish to extend SINCERE GRATITUDE to all who made pledges for the coming year. If you have yet to make your financial commitment to the Church for the 2023 calendar year, it's not too late. We will continue to accept pledges over the next several weeks. Your commitment helps the Finance Committee plan the annual budget for the following year. Lastly, if you've not yet honored your pledge for 2022, please do so before the year is out.

Through 2022, Northbrook, like many establishments, has continued to navigate post-pandemic challenges. And though it's been another unpredictable year, we'd like to remind you of just some of the ways your stewardship has enabled Northbrook's continued support of our members and the greater community in 2022...

Book Clubs • Bible Studies • Men's Connection • AA Meetings • LOGOS • Summer Camp • Chili Cook-off & Cornhole Tournament • Senior Soup Lunches • Knit Wits • Northbrook Family Sundays • Summer Outdoor Worship • Annual Golf Outing • Trunk-or-Treat • Northbrook Preschool • Care & Share Donations • Fair Trade support at SERRV.org • Numerous Building & Grounds Improvements • Presbytery of Detroit Hunger Ministries • Lighthouse • South Oakland Shelter • Freedom House, Detroit • The Open Door Ministries • Howell Nature Center • South Oakland Citizens for the Homeless (S.O.C.H) • Second Mile Center, Detroit • The Baldwin Center in Pontiac • Oakland Family Services • World Medical Relief • PCUSA General Assembly Shared Mission • A Place of Refuge • Presbyterian Disaster Assistance • Calvin East P.C.'s Word Literacy Program • Faith Communities Coalition on Foster Care • and many more...

These ministries are not possible without the generous contributions of Northbrook's members. From everyone whose lives you've touched this year: thank you, thank you, THANK YOU! As you navigate this holiday season with friends and loved ones, take some time to give thanks to God not only for all that you may have, but also for all that you may have to offer.

With endless gratitude for the ways you show that Finance Matters,
Dan Gross on behalf of your Finance Committee: Tim Boese, Mark Best, Dan Gross (Chair),
Mike Krug (Financial Secretary), and Pastor Ben Larson-Wolbrink
