Every Season of Life Has a Divine Purpose

King Solomon wrote in Ecclesiastes 3 about the fundamental truth that change is inevitable, we come into this world totally dependent on others for our very survival, and as we grow and mature in our faith, our focus shifts to total dependence on God to meet all our needs.

The passage begins with, “To everything there is a season, and a time for every purpose under heaven”. This passage assures us that God is in control of all life’s transitions, both joy and sorrow, beginnings and endings.

Ecclesiastes 3:2-8 lists contrasting seasons: birth and death, planting and uprooting, weeping and laughter, mourning and dancing. These reflect the inevitable shifts we all experience. There’s wisdom in recognizing that each season is a part of God’s greater story, none last forever, but all have purpose.

While our lives are connected by time and change, God is eternal, arranging each season for a reason that we might not understand. Much of life is outside our control, but God remains constant and faithful through it all. Trusting Him turns doubt into hope.

As we face whatever changes that come our way in 2026, let us not fear, but embrace every season as a time of growth, trusting God in all things. And remember the Serenity Prayer, "God, grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, the courage to change the things I can, and the wisdom to know the difference"

While change can sometimes feel unsettling, Ecclesiastes 3 reminds us that God “has made everything beautiful in its time,” and placed eternity in our hearts, which anchors us to the eternal hope found in Christ, who walks with us through every season.
