UFLI Aligned

Book 1: Alphabet

UFLI Lessons 1-41

Created by Amy Hensch

May be reproduced but not sold

How to use this binder

- Print double-sided. Pages are intentionally left blank so that each new letter starts on the front of the page.
- Print one for each student that you work with at one time - ie. if you work with groups of 3, print 3 copies. You may want to print the sentences for home practice, especially as they get longer.
- This binder covers short vowels and hard consonant sounds and is aligned with UFLI.
- All UFLI decodable passages lessons 1-41 are included in this package.
- Do one lesson per day. Review is included. The first lessons are quite short - that's okay! New readers need to build stamina gradually.
- Short lessons each day are more valuable than longer lessons on alternate days. Don't rush!
- All letters are meant to be sounded out, not named.
- The different fonts are intentional.
- Remind students often how far they have come.
- Assess student knowledge before starting and begin with a lesson they can master right away.
- Allow thinking time but correct all mistakes right away. Emphasize taking risks and learning!
- This binder can be used for grades 1-6 and is especially useful with older students.

Extension Activities

- Print small cards with letters on them and have students practice spelling words they have learned. Use Elkonin boxes to help students identify that each letter has one sound.
- Print the roll and read pages from UFLI and use as is or cut up and glue onto cardstock (I use old file folders). Give students a few words then have students identify words that you tell them. I primarily print the review pages for this.
- Use magnet letters as you might with letter cards. Have students spell words and do word ladders. Eg. fin - pin - pig - big - bin - ban - bag - sag - sap - map - cap...
- Use primarily lowercase letters but use uppercase when appropriate for proper nouns.
- UFLI is a great resource!
- Show students frequently how far they've come. It's so rewarding to see how many pages have been learned.
