AUTISM SERVICE DOG PROGRAM

“It seems like Bruce has always been a member of the family. He is head over heels in love with his girl. He has already changed her life so much. We are forever grateful for all of you.”

-ERIN HUFF

Dear Future Client,

We know when looking for a service dog there's a lot of information to be gathered. We have put together this pdf for you to get a bite more generalized information. Autism service dogs can help in a variety of ways. Each of our applicants are affected differently by autism we take a careful look into how autism has had an impact in their life and make a tailored training program to fit your needs. We've seen great improvement in the children's life with a service dog trained for their specific needs. For example, your child may or may not have sensory issues, they may or may not have tantrums. In order for us know how we can train a service dog to help we put together our detailed Main Application, thereafter a tailored training program to meet their needs. Here's a bit of a breakdown on the training, benefits, payment options, and our company.

Training:

We are not a your typical warehouse company, meaning we don't have a big facility with a ton of dogs being kenneled. Our dogs are trained in, an in home environment with our certified trainers. We over see the training by doing weekly checkups on the dogs training, and each dog must pass a test before moving on to the next step in training. Whether we are training a dog for a college student or a child with sibling's chances are the training atmosphere will be as similar to the applicants' home atmosphere. All our dogs go through our puppy raising program, basic obedience, public access training, and specific training to meet your specific needs. The last training they go through may consist of bolting, deep pressure therapy, calming tantrums, social outings, enhanced security, comfort, acting as a deterrent for a repetitive behavior etc... The specific needs our applicant has, determines the training their service dog goes through.

Throughout the entire training process, the dogs get tested biweekly, so we can see where the dog stands in his or hers current training program. This allows us to focus on both the dogs strength and weaknesses in training and adjust as we go. We highly believe in positive reinforcing, while correction the bad behaviors.

Benefits:

The benefits of a service dog can widely range from what they are trained to do. Public outings become easier with their best friend by their side, it gives them courage to be in public and takes the "spotlight" away from them. Sleeping alone or in their own room now has a new meaning because their best friend is right next to them. You'll see a change in their tantrums, because their service dog acts as a deterrent and helps to calm/minimize the tantrums and melt downs. Enhances sense of security is provided with their service dog by their side. One of the major benefits is that the service dogs and their owner become a team together. Imagine being able to take your best friend everywhere, like their safety blanket. They both learn from each other to the child or teenager will learn that the dog need him/her to take them out to potty, feed them, shower them etc.... while the dog is there to help them out in a number of ways to. As the years go on their bond strengthens, and they both grow together.

Letter From The Founder

Thank you for your interest in our program, we appreciate you even considering Loyalty Service Dogs as the company for your next furry friend. We typically run a program of 20-30 dogs at any given point. We like to be more detailed oriented and defiantly get to know our clients more. They become part of our family as we do theirs each one of our pups has a special place in our heart and its not just another number. Having worked for two other major service dog organizations in the U.S I aim everyday to provide the best possible journey for our clients. Wether it's an 8 year old child in Kentucky who's confidence is building up from receiving one our pups or a 42 year old women who's been living with seizures for 20+ years from California and is finally getting the peace of mind she needs. The stories are endless and so are the memories.

Payment Options

We proudly offer in house financing with interest free payment plans and other alternative ways to fund your service dog. Here's a quick overview of the payment plan options we currently offer. As well as information on outside financing, and alternative ways of funding your service dog.

In house financing in a nut shell:

All programs require a 30% deposit due along with the 2nd package (purchase agreement, acknowledgments, and our 2nd application) to get started. We have 1, and 2 year interest free monthly payment plans available.

Your monthly payments are determined by the total all inclusive price of your service dog minus the 30% deposit. We'd gladly break down the numbers for you and give you monthly payment due and the deposit amount. Your first payment is due after the initial month of the deposit. In order to qualify for the payment plans you must show proof of income and expenses. You can set up automatic payments through your bank or easy online payments through Paypal, you can also mail in check payments.

Fundraising:

Although we're not a none profit, about 80%-85% of our clients do fundraising to obtain their service dog. This is a great way not only to gather funds but also spread awareness of the your specific cause. Even though we don't offer any hands on fundraising help we do have a fabulous fundraising one on one consultation to help you get started. You can contact our office for more information and help on getting this going.

We don't put any restrictions on how you do fundraising or when you hold your events, fundraising in 100% in our clients hand. In most cases the donor writes out a check directly to us and we direct the funds towards your account.

Outside financing:

Some of our clients prefer to go through a bank or a financial institution for financing, this option is good since they can offer longer loan terms. We have found some great products online that are both effective and easy to obtain here are some websites to check out.

Alternative ways of funding your service dog:

If neither of these two choices are an option for you due to your own financial circumstances, our clients have also found these alternative ways to fund their service dog. These are some things our clients have done not all of the alternative ways apply or are visible for everyone.

1. Grants, throughout our country there are many grants available for people with special needs, disabilities, families in need of financial assistance etc.... You name it, chances are there are organizations with a grant available. We highly encourage our clients to look into local community and state grants. They may not cover the entire cost of the service dog but can help out in some way.
2. Family members, family members are a great way to get started. They can either help you by donating money, getting behind the cause, help in fundraising or spread the word.
3. Tax Returns, Tax returns are a great way to help you put money towards your service dog weather its used for the deposit or as a part of the overall payment.
4. Although we by no means recommend the following some of our clients have gotten their funds from Home loans, 401k's or savings accounts. Depending on your own situation these options maybe an option for you

These are only some options that are out there, our clients have gone above and beyond to get the help they need. We've seen plenty of families do a variety or combination of these choices to obtain their dogs.

Please feel free to contact us directly at 702-712-2125 or by replying to this email with any questions.
