

Audition to Become a Character Application

Name: _____

Preferred Pronouns: _____

Date: _____

Hello everyone,

I am so excited that you have decided to audition to be a character in one or more of my books in worlds like no other you have seen before. In these worlds you truly get to be who you are meant to be inside and out. My books are all LGBTQIA+ friendly and you will not be judge based on age, sex, race, sexual orientation, and anything in-between that I may have forgot to list here. Know that this is a safe place as well. Here you will be judge on if you can fit the part we are looking for or not. Parts can be fit to the unique soul that is cast for it.

Below are questions that I would like you to answer openly and honestly. If more information is needed JCRevolt Publications may reach out with follow up questions. If you fit this round of auditions and make it to the character-building process you will be reached out to by email to set up a time to go over everything and begin. If you don't make it through this round of auditions you will be notified and told of new audition dates.

Also provide a headshot of yourself along with application, as many as you like to show us who you are!

Lastly know this is all about us having fun and enjoy the love of reading, telling stories and so much more. Remember that while you are answering everything below. Good luck and I look forward to hearing from you. You may attach more paper if lines provided are not enough.

Jessie

One – Your character needs a name. For this you have a couple opinions.

___ - You can use your first and middle name. (Last names unless you chose are made during the character-building process and is a reflection from your “family” line.)

___ - If you have a name that you would like to use that means something to use, I am open to the idea. Please write it out in print and any meanings that come along with it, also any nickname, real or character base.

___ - Lastly you can chose to just wait and see what name comes out of building your character.

Two – Do you believe in magic?
